

PLANT PRODUCTION

Reproduction in Gymnosperms

Gymnosperms are seed-producing plants that do not have a flower and do not have an ovary. They have a single seed, which is called a seed cone. The seed cone is the female reproductive organ of the plant.

The seed cone is made up of several scales, which are called bracts. The scales are arranged in a spiral pattern around the seed. The seed is located at the base of the scales. The seed is protected by the scales, which are called the seed cone's protective covering.

Life Cycle of a Gymnosperm

The life cycle of a gymnosperm is a long process. It begins with the seed, which is protected by the seed cone. The seed grows into a young plant, which is called a seedling. The seedling grows into a mature plant, which is called a tree. The tree produces seeds, which are protected by the seed cone. The cycle then repeats itself.
