Starting with Whitehead Lynn Sargent De Jonghe, 2022-07-26 Parents and teachers want to give children the best opportunities for success in life But opinions may vary vehemently about the methods for accomplishing these aims Starting with Whitehead begins with the premise that today's children will need skills and values to live in a world of fast paced turbulent change creativity problem solving ability attitudes of life long learning emotional resilience and appreciation of different perspectives As we seek guidance on these issues we are led to the work of Alfred North Whitehead who brilliantly perceived that the process of change itself is fundamental to our existence how we experience ourselves and others and how we interact with the world around us In his classic work The Aims of Education he elaborated a three stage process of learning involving romance precision and generalization His vision of education calls for exploring real experiences rather than packing scraps of information into passive students This book offers examples of learning events at each stage that illustrate how adults can help children thrive in a world of change based on the author s experience working with children as a parent teacher principal and policy maker Drawing on seminal psychological and educational research De Jonghe sets these events in the context of a vigorous theoretical foundation and proposes specific strategies for success Her recommendations have relevance for parents teachers principals and policy makers Re-Reasoning Ethics Barry Hoffmaster,Cliff

Hooker,2018-05-11 How developing a more expansive non formal conception of reason produces richer ethical understandings of human situations explored and illustrated with many real examples In Re Reasoning Ethics Barry Hoffmaster and Cliff Hooker enhance and empower ethics by adopting a non formal paradigm of rational deliberation as intelligent problem solving and a complementary non formal paradigm of ethical deliberation as problem solving design to promote human flourishing The non formal conception of reason produces broader and richer ethical understandings of human situations not the simple constrained depictions provided by moral theories and their logical applications in medical ethics and bioethics Instead it delivers and vindicates the moral judgment that complex contextual and dynamic situations require Hoffmaster and Hooker demonstrate how this more expansive rationality operates with examples first in science and then in ethics Non formal reason brings rationality not just to the empirical world of science but also to the empirical realities of human lives Among the many real cases they present is that of how women at risk of having children with genetic conditions decide whether to try to become pregnant These women do not apply the formal principle of maximizing expected utility as advised by genetic counselors and instead imagine scenarios of what their lives could be like with an affected child and assess whether they could accept the worst of these scenarios Hoffmaster and Hooker explain how moral compromise and a liberated extended and enriched reflective equilibrium expand and augment rational ethical deliberation and how that deliberation can rationally design ethical practices institutions and policies Organizations Howard P. Greenwald,2008

Providing a comprehensive understanding of the functions of formal organizations and the challenges they face this text emphasizes the importance of forces that organizations or their leaders cannot fully control as a key distinctive theme It covers basic features of organizations such as roles structure reward systems power and authority and culture and introduces important theoretical perspectives related to these features Cognitive Relativism and Social Science Diederick Raven,2020-02-18 Modern epistemology has been dominated by an empiricist theory of knowledge that assumes a direct individualistic relationship between the knowing subject and the object of knowledge Truth is held to be universal and non individualistic social and cultural factors are considered sources of distortion of true knowledge Since the late 1950s this view has been challenged by a cognitive relativism asserting that what is true is socially conditioned This volume examines the far reaching implications of this development for the social sciences Recently cognitive relativism has become a key issue of debate in anthropology philosophy and sociology In anthropology this is illustrated by a growing awareness of the similarity of all systems of knowledge In philosophy it is exemplified by the realization that traditional monolithic and absolutist concepts of truth have increasingly lost any power to make sense and to convince In sociology it is visible in a renewal of interest in a general sociology of knowledge Yet in spite of this convergence of interests practitioners of these three disciplines have on the whole shown no inclination to reach a consensus on the terms of reference that could facilitate an interdisciplinary approach Cognitive Relativism and Social Science aims to do just this It is a working assumption of this volume that as far as the subject of cognitive relativism is concerned anthropologists philosophers and sociologists should join forces rather than try to deal with the challenges of cognitive relativism within strictly imposed boundaries that normally separate academic disciplines Only when they work together will it be possible to treat the problems posed by cognitive relativism in an adequate way This volume provides the results of attempts to communicate on cognitive relativism across disciplinary boundaries This is must reading in the philosophy of social science and in social research theory Practicing work practices and their contributions to the personal organisational and occupational changes that evidence learning to be viewed as negotiations enacted and managed within contexts that are in turn sets of premeditated and concurrent negotiations that frame the transformations on and from which on going negotiations of learning and practice ensue The book does not seek to supplant understandings of the rich and valuable concept of negotiation Rather it seeks to develop and promote a more explicit use of the concept as a socio personal learning concept at the same time as it opens alternative perspectives on its deployment as a metaphor for individual s learning in work Building Communication Theories Fred L.

Casimir, 2013-10-16 Concern with various matters related to humans as they communicate has led to an increase in both research and theorizing during the second half of the 20th century As a matter of fact so many scholars and so many disciplines have become involved in this process that it is virtually impossible to understand and appreciate all that has been accomplished so far This book focuses on one important aspect of human sense making theory building and strives to clarify the thesis that theories do not develop in some sort of social intellectual or cultural vacuum They are necessarily the products of specific times insights and mindsets Theories dealing with the process of communication or communicating are tied to socio cultural value systems and historic factors that influence individuals in ways often inadequately understood by those who use them The process orientation of this book inevitably leads to an emphasis on the perceptions of human beings Thus the focus shifts from the subject or area called communication to the act of communicating Finally this volume offers insight into how the process of human sense making has evolved in those academic fields commonly identified as communication rhetoric speech communication or speech within specific socio cultural settings Principles of Management Hasanraza Ansari, Modern businesses are placed in a complex and intricate environment The constraints imposed and the opportunities provided by the nature of the economic political legal social and demographic factors have a profound impact on the business Management is a process by which managers continuously reinvent themselves to meet organizational goals and global competition A good manager must also possess a sound understanding of human behavior to develop the most important managerial skill of empathy This book is a first level introduction to the field of management enabling students to understand what managers do what skills are needed by managers what their basic functions are and in a nutshell what management is all about The book elaborately describes the five functions of a manager Planning Organizing Human Resource Management Leading and Directing and Control The chapter end exercises and practice quizzes encourage the student to rehearse the various concepts learned throughout the text The book is useful for students pursuing courses in Business Management both at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels It is also a useful text for undergraduate students pursuing courses in engineering disciplines and other professional courses where Principles of Management is part of the curriculum

Decisions Michael A. Murray, 1986. Economic Reform Processes in South Asia Philippa S. Dee, 2012. While South Asia's economic reform initiatives of the last two decades were often born in crisis, this alone does not account for their occurrence. This book looks at the processes and institutional arrangements behind these reforms and analyses what lessons can be learnt about how South Asia can improve its policy efficiency. The book develops ideas about how to overcome the political restraints to reform by drawing on recent theories of political economy and policy learning. It tests these ideas against authoritative case studies of actual reform initiatives in South Asia, which illustrate processes and institutional arrangements that have helped South Asian governments to sustain reform efforts even in the absence of a strong political base. This offers valuable lessons for the global economy as it moves into a phase of rebalancing with the structural adjustments that this will require. The book goes on to identify weaknesses that could be addressed by South Asian national governments and regional forums. It is an important contribution to studies on South Asian Politics and International Political Economy.
