Constitutional Secularism in an Age of Religious Revival Susanna Mancini, Michel Rosenfeld, 2014-01-30 The global movement of culture and religion has brought about a serious challenge to traditional constitutional secularism This challenge comes in the form of a political and institutional struggle against secular constitutionalism and a two pronged assault on the very legitimacy and viability of the concept On the one hand constitutional secularism has been attacked as inherently hostile rather than neutral toward religion and on the other hand constitutional secularism has been criticized as inevitably favouring one religion or set of religions over others The contributors to this book come from a variety of different disciplines including law anthropology history philosophy and political theory They provide accounts of and explanations for present predicaments critiques of contemporary institutional political and cultural arrangements justifications and practices and suggestions with a view to overcoming or circumventing several of the seemingly intractable or insurmountable current controversies and deadlocks The book is separated in to five parts Part I provides theoretical perspectives on the present day conflicts between secularism and religion Part II focuses on the relationship between religion secularism and the public sphere Part III examines the nexus between religion secularism and women s equality Part IV concentrates on religious perspectives on constraints on and accommodations of religion within the precincts of the liberal state Finally Part V zeroes in on conflicts between religion and secularism in specific contexts namely education and freedom of speech

CEMAF as a Census Method David A. Swanson, Paula J. Walashek, 2011-03-28 In provocative terms that push the envelope of technical administrative and legal capabilities Swanson and Walashek propose a re vamped US census based neither on the current system self enumeration nor its predecessor door to door canvassing Instead they propose that it be built on a combination of four elements 1 administrative records 2 the continuously updated Master Address File 3 survey data and 4 modeling and imputation techniques They use Census Enhanced Master Address

File CEMAF as a descriptive term for their proposal which is based on four principles and includes a proposal for an independent Census Bureau They argue that evidence suggests that the methods used to conduct traditional census counts may be at the end of their useful working lives as evidenced by increasing costs and declining response rates Some of their ideas will seem farfetched However Swanson and Walashek believe this is the time to discuss radical proposals as governments re examine the utility of traditional census counts and consider reductions as is the case in Canada and England This SpringerBriefs should be on the reading list of staff in statistical agencies grappling with rising costs and declining response rates as well as census stakeholders concerned about costs accuracy and census utility Resources in Education, 2001-04
