LAB _____: PAPER PET GENETICS

1. Given the list of characteristics below, you will create an imaginary pet and then breed it to review the concepts of genetics. Your pet will have the following possible characteristics:

Characteristic	Trait (phenotype)
Gender	male (hat)	or	female (hair bow)
Skin color	green	or	orange
Eyes	round	or	square
Nose	triangle	or	oval
Teeth	pointed	or	square

2. The genetics of these characteristics and their traits are summarized in the table below:

Characteristic	Trait (Phenotype)	Genotype
Gender	male	XY
	female	XX
Skin color	green	FF	or Ff
	orange	ff
Eyes	round	EE	or Ee
	square	ee
Nose	triangle	NN	or Nn
	oval	nn
Teeth	pointed	TT	or Tt
	square	tt

3. Work in teams of two. Each person needs to design her or his own pet for the original parents. You will get to mate them later (3). Determine the genotype for each of the characteristics for your pet in the following manner: To simulate the random way chromosomes are divided up during meiosis into egg and sperm, you will flip a coin to determine what kind of allele for each trait your pet inherits from each parent.

THE RULES: HEADS = Dominant allele | TAILS = Recessive allele

Pawsitive selection Mia Persson, 2020-01-21 Through domestication and recent selection dogs have evolved a unique set of communicative skills to attract and redirect human attention These social skills have not been seen to the same extent in socialised wolves and are therefore believed to have a significant genetic basis The process of domestication and breed formation has also had effects on the structure of the dog genome that are favourable for genetic mapping With a high amount of linkage and long haplotype blocks fewer genetic markers are needed to find gene trait associations in dogs than in humans Dogs serve as an important research model for us since humans and dogs share several diseases psychiatric disorders and behavioural traits In Paper I I recorded human directed social behaviours during a two minute unsolvable problem task in 500 laboratory beagles The dogs were living at a breeding facility and had been bred kept and handled under standardised conditions Behaviours related to task solving and human directed contact seeking were separated in a principal component analysis indicating that the behavioural test can be used to study dog human interaction Narrowsense heritability h2 of the largest principal component related to contact seeking behaviours was estimated to 0.23. This study found a significant genetic basis to the variation seen in human directed contact seeking behaviours recorded in this population. Next in Paper II we collected and genotyped the DNA of 190 of the previously tested beagles with an HD Canine SNP chip. To find genes associated with human directed contact seeking I performed a genome wide association study (GWAS) showing one significant and two suggestive single nucleotide polymorphism (SNP) markers on chromosome 26. The significant SNP is located within a gene named SEZ6L previously associated with autism in human studies. Two adjacent SNPs with suggestive association were found within a gene called ARVCF which has been associated with schizophrenia. To our knowledge this was the first genome wide study to present regions within the dog genome associated with inter species communication in dogs. However these results could have been unique to this beagle population so Paper III aimed to verify our previous findings in additional dog breeds. We tested 100 Labrador retrievers and 61 golden retrievers with the same unsolvable problem task used in Paper I. Their DNA was collected and each individual was genotyped by pyrosequencing on two of the previously identified SNPs. To study the effects of recent selection the Labrador retrievers were divided into two types. The common type is mainly bred and used for dog shows and as a pet while the field type is mainly bred and used for hunting purposes. In this study we found that both markers varied in both dog breeds and was significantly associated with human directed contact seeking behaviours. Allele frequencies differed significantly between Labrador retriever types suggesting that these loci have been affected by recent selection. In conclusion Paper III verifies the results found in Paper II. Finally in Paper IV we investigated the association between dogs human directed social skills and previously known SNP markers in the oxytocin receptor (OXTR) region. The oxytocin system plays an important role in the formation of social bonds and may therefore also be important in the bond between dogs and humans. Here we hypothesized that dogs receiving intranasal oxytocin respond differently to the hormone depending on the receptor type. To investigate this 60 golden retrievers were genotyped for SNP markers in the OXTR region and tested with the unsolvable problem task used in Paper I and III. An association was found between genotype and social behaviour in response to oxytocin administration. Dogs responded differently to oxytocin treatment depending on OXTR genotype. In summary this thesis contributes to the knowledge on genetic influence of interspecies communication in dogs.
