Factors influencing where people live

Activities and the environment influence the location. People live in areas where the factors are most favourable for human life.

Factors

Extension: How can we use this information to help us understand the world better?

WORKSHEET

Global Population Distribution

Global population distribution shows where people live and how they are distributed. It is the result of many factors.

Population Density

- Population density is the number of people living in a given area.
- It is measured in people per square kilometre (ppk).
- High population density is found in areas where the land is fertile and the climate is favourable.
- Low population density is found in areas where the land is arid or mountainous.
- Population density is also affected by the availability of water and the quality of the land.

Population Density and Distribution

Some areas of the world are densely populated (crowded) with many people. Some areas are sparsely populated (empty) with few people.

Factors influencing where people live:

• Climate: Warm, sunny climates attract more people. Cold, wet climates attract fewer people.
