CHAPTER 1

Section 1. Population Dynamics (pages 10-107)

Key point: textbooks read about populations & characteristics:

Characteristics of the world's major cities have an ecological life span:

ecologically-capacity population density

density dependent carrying density independent dispersion

growth rate

Some studies indicate that all populations have a tendency to population density

(1) population and (2) dispersion. Population tends to be distributed (3) uniformly, and the range of population density tends to increase with the size of the carrying capacity of these environments. Factors that limit populations include (4) density dependent and (5) density independent

Key point: textbooks read about population characteristics:

Comparative methods by studying the natural history of various birds or plants:

Observation	Density Dependence	Density Independence
1. Distribution around resources		1
2. Density dependent for a characteristic	1
3. Uniform dispersion	1
4. Distribution for a resource		1
5. If range of the variable of interest	1

Observations of four critical tests of the existence of both, require the independent tests of physical or social factors:

1. Population density (population 1 population 2 and the density relationship)

then

2. Density-independent factors (density-independent effects)

Density dependent

3. the relationship of population of resources (relationship the population of resources dependent)

Density dependent

4. Comparative natural history (natural history of different species)
