A Case Study of the Implementation of Joint Planning in an Organization Undergoing Transformation to Joint Force Headquarters in One State Stephen G. Lind, U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, 2008 Case Study of Joint Planning Implementation in an Organization Undergoing Transformation to Joint Force Headquarters in

One State Stephen G. Lind, 2008 The National Guard has been in a nearly constant state of change in one form or another since its inception The events that have transpired since the attacks on the World Trade Center on 11 September 2001 demonstrated the need for the next major evolution of the National Guard The National Guard began the process of transforming the State Military Headquarters in all 54 states and territories by converting from an Administrative and Oversight Headquarters to a Joint Operational Activity in 2003 This study investigates the changes brought about by the implementation of the joint planning process with relation to the transformation to Joint Force headquarters in California It explores the impact of the joint planning process to current operational plans within California and the challenges and successes experienced during the process In doing so it focuses on the effects the JFHQ transformation process has had in California One critical component to operating in a joint environment is the ability for the organization to conduct Joint Planning using the Joint Operation Planning and Execution System JOPES format All of the existing plans for each state would have to be updated and converted to the JOPES format adding to the challenges of learning a new planning format and training planners to use the new format This study finds that resourcing has been the most significant challenge to the transformation process with regards to joint planning The planning staff within the J 5 has suffered from a lack of sufficient personnel to conduct both strategic and operational planning simultaneously Strategic planning has been extremely effective while operational planning has produced mixed results Personnel within the joint staff have not been trained on the Joint Operations Planning Process JOPP which further hampers its operational planning capability The lack of trained planners has slowed attempts to update and transition current on the shelf plans from The Management of Security Cooperation ,2017

Strategy Richard J Bailey, James W Forsyth, Mark O Yeisley, 2016-04-15 How does one engage in the study of strategy Strategy Context and Adaptation from Archidamus to Airpower argues that strategy is not just concerned with amassing knowledge it is also about recognizing our imperfect understanding of the environment and respecting the complex nature of adaptation to the unforeseen or unexpected In essence the strongest strategists are those who commit to an education that cultivates a more holistic and adaptive way of thinking With that thought in mind the contributors to Strategy each a current or former professor at the School of Advanced Air and Space Studies widely considered the Department of Defense s premier school of strategy offer ways of thinking strategically about a variety of subject matters from classical history to cyber power Practitioners in the profession of arms perhaps more than any other profession must employ critical thinking where the application of power on land at sea in the air and in space and cyberspace are concerned Strategy examines various sub disciplines regarding the use of power and illuminates different approaches to thinking which have implications beyond the implementation of force Professional Journal of the United States Army ,2015 Military Review ,2015 Raising Thinking from the Tactical to the Operational Level United States. Joint Operation Planning M. G. Mullen, 2013-03-07 Joint operation planning consists of planning activities associated with joint military operations by combatant commanders CCDRs and their subordinate joint force commanders JFCs in response to contingencies and crises It transforms national strategic objectives into activities by development of operational products that include planning for the mobilization deployment employment sustainment redeployment and demobilization of joint forces Strategic direction is the common thread that integrates and synchronizes the planning activities and operations of the Joint Staff JS combatant commands CCMDs Services JFCs combat support agencies CSAs and other Department of Defense DOD agencies It provides purpose and focus to the planning for employment of military force As an overarching term strategic direction encompasses the processes and manner by which the President and the Secretary of Defense SecDef provide strategic guidance to the joint force Joint operation planning occurs within Adaptive Planning and Execution APEX which is the department level system of joint policies processes procedures and reporting structures APEX is supported by communications and information technology that is used by the joint planning and execution community JPEC to monitor plan and execute mobilization deployment employment sustainment redeployment and demobilization activities associated with joint operations APEX formally integrates the planning activities of the JPEC and facilitates the JFC's seamless transition from planning to execution during times of crisis. APEX activities span many organizational levels but the focus is on the interaction between SecDef and CCDRs which ultimately helps the President and SecDef decide when, where, and how to commit US military forces. In conducting joint operation planning, commanders and staff apply operational art to operational design using the joint operation planning process. JOPP planners apply operational design to provide the conceptual framework that will underpin joint operation or campaign plans and their subsequent execution. The application of operational art and operational design further reduces uncertainty and adequately orders complex problems to allow for more detailed planning. The planning staff uses JOPP to conduct detailed planning to fully develop options, identify resources, and identify and mitigate risk. Planners develop the concept of operations, CONOPS, force plans, deployment plans, and supporting plans that contain multiple options in order to provide the flexibility to adapt to changing conditions and remain consistent with the JFC's intent. Joint operation planning plays a fundamental role in securing the Nation's interests in a continuously changing operational environment. Through structured review, assessment, and modification, plans are constantly assessed and updated by the JFC and reviewed by the broader JPEC and senior DOD leadership. The open and collaborative planning process provides common understanding across multiple levels of organizations and the basis for adaptation and change. This publication reflects current guidance for planning military operations and as a keystone publication forms the core of joint doctrine for joint operation planning throughout the range of military operations. Department of Defense, 2010. This two in one resource includes the Tactical Commanders and Staff Toolkit plus the Liaison Officer Toolkit. Defense Support of Civil Authorities (DSCA) enables tactical level Commanders and their Staffs to properly plan and execute assigned DSCA missions for all hazard operations excluding Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, high yield Explosives (CBRNE) or acts of terrorism. Applies to all United States military forces including Department of Defense (DOD) components, Active and Reserve forces, and National Guard when in Federal Status. This hand on resource also may be useful information for local and state first responders. Chapter 1 contains background information relative to Defense Support of Civil Authorities (DSCA) including legal, doctrinal, and policy issues. Chapter 2 provides an overview of the incident management processes including National Response Framework (NRF), National Incident Management Systems (NIMS), and Incident Command System (ICS) as well as Department of Homeland Security (DHS). Chapter 3 discusses the civilian and military responses to natural disaster. Chapter 4 provides a brief overview of Joint Operation Planning Process and mission analysis. Chapter 5 covers Defense Support of Civil Authorities (DSCA) planning factors for response to all hazard events. Chapter 6 is review of safety and operational composite risk management processes. Chapters 7-11 contain Concepts of Operation (CONOPS) and details five natural hazards, disasters, and the pertinent planning factors for each within the scope of DSCA.

Quantitative Intelligence Analysis Edward Waltz, 2014-10-16. Quantitative Intelligence Analysis describes the model based method of intelligence analysis that represents the analyst's mental models of a subject as well as the analyst's reasoning process exposing what the analyst believes about the subject and how they arrived at those beliefs and converged on analytic judgments. It includes specific methods of explicitly representing the analyst's mental models as computational models, dynamic simulations and interactive analytic games, the structure of an analyst's mental model and the theoretical basis for capturing and representing the tacit knowledge of these models explicitly as computational models, detailed description of the use of these models in rigorous structured analysis of difficult targets, model illustrations and simulation descriptions, the role of models in support of collection and operations, case studies that illustrate a wide range of intelligence problems, and a recommended curriculum for technical analysts.

Joint-Interagency SMARTbook 1 - Joint Strategic and Operational Planning Michael A. Santacrose, 2015. Joint Interagency SMARTbook 1: Joint Strategic and Operational Planning is an orderly logical analytical progression enabling planners to sequentially follow it to a rational conclusion. By utilizing this planning process which is conceptually easy to understand and applicable in all environments, any plan can come to life. This new revision of Planning for Planners incorporates the latest thinking on Adaptive Planning and Execution (APEX), Global Force Management (GFM), Campaign Planning and Assessment Fundamentals. Planning for Planners has been utilized since 2007 by war colleges, joint staffs, Services, combatant commands and allies as a step by step guide to understanding the complex world of global planning and force management. Paramount to planning is flexibility. The ultimate aspiration of this book is to help develop flexible planners who can cope with the inevitable changes that occur during the planning process.
