How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph, 2019-06-01 Despite an enduring belief that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and determine how science is perceived by the public Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1966 Nuclear Science Abstracts, 1963 Science Teaching in Schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Science and Technology Committee, 2006-11-05 The Committee's report examines science and mathematics teaching in secondary schools in England focusing on the following issues the take up of science and mathematics at GCSE and A level the provision of careers advice to students problems in the recruitment and retention of teachers the quality of teaching methods and the role of continuing professional development The Committee finds that effective science teaching in schools is essential both in order to ensure a satisfactory general level of scientific literacy in society and to enable the next generation of scientists and engineers to progress into higher education and beyond It argues that the current examination system forces students to study an excessively narrow range of subjects at too early an age and it recommends that the Government should reconsider the Tomlinson proposals for a broader diploma based system for 14-19 year old students based on the International Baccalaureate This would ensure that students receive a more rounded education and are not made to over specialise before they are able to see the merits of studying science and mathematics Concerns are also raised about the shortage of science teachers particularly specialist physics and chemistry teachers the quality of careers advice in schools and the importance of practical science in schools Biographies in the History of Physics Christian Forstner, Mark Walker, 2020-07-22 This book sheds new light on the biographical approach in the history of physics by including the biographies of scientific objects institutions and concepts What is a biography Can biographies also be written for non human subjects like scientific instruments institutions or concepts The respective chapters of this book discuss these controversial questions using examples from the history of physics By approaching biography as metaphor it transcends the boundaries between various perspectives on the history of physics and enriches our grasp of the past Waste Biorefinery Thallada Bhaskar, Ashok Pandey, Eldon R. Rene, Daniel C.W. Tsang, 2020-03-13 Waste Biorefinery Integrating Biorefineries for Waste Valorisation provides the various options available for several renewable waste streams The book includes scientific and technical information pertaining to the most advanced and innovative processing technologies used for the conversion of biogenic waste to biofuels energy products and biochemicals In addition the book reports on recent developments and new achievements in the field of biochemical and thermo chemical methods and the necessities and potential generated by different kinds of biomass in presumably more decentralized biorefineries The book presents an assortment of case studies from developing and developed countries pertaining to the use of sustainable technologies for energy recovery from different waste matrices Advantages and limitations of different technologies are also discussed by considering the local energy demands government policies environmental impacts and education in bioenergy Provides information on the most advanced and innovative processes for biomass conversion Covers information on biochemical and thermo chemical processes and products development on the principles of biorefinery Includes information on the integration of processes and technologies for the production of biofuels energy products and biochemicals Demonstrates the application of various processes with proven case studies
