Science and Technology in the Global Cold War Naomi Oreskes, John Krige, 2014-10-31 Investigations of how the global Cold War shaped national scientific and technological practices in fields from biomedicine to rocket science The Cold War period saw a dramatic expansion of state funded science and technology research Government and military patronage shaped Cold War technoscientific practices imposing methods that were project oriented team based and subject to national security restrictions These changes affected not just the arms race and the space race but also research in agriculture biomedicine computer science ecology meteorology and other fields This volume examines science and technology in the context of the Cold War considering whether the new institutions and institutional arrangements that emerged globally constrained technoscientific inquiry or offered greater opportunities for it The contributors find that whatever the particular science and whatever the political system in which that science was operating the knowledge that was produced bore some relation to the goals of the nation state These goals varied from nation to nation weapons research was emphasized in the United States and the Soviet Union for example but in France and China scientific independence and self reliance dominated The contributors also consider to what extent the changes to science and technology practices in this era were produced by the specific politics anxieties and aspirations of the Cold War Contributors Elena Aronova Erik M Conway Angela N H Creager David Kaiser John Krige Naomi Oreskes George Reisch Sigrid Schmalzer Sonja D Schmid Matthew Shindell Asif A Siddiqi Zuoyue Wang Benjamin Wilson Professional Journal of the United States Army, 2015 The Making of Environmental Law Richard J. Lazarus, 2023-02-15 An updated and passionate second edition of a foundational book How did environmental law first emerge in the United States Why has it evolved in the ways that it has And what are the unique challenges inherent to environmental lawmaking in general and in the United States in particular Since its first edition The Making of Environmental Law has been foundational to our understanding of these questions For the second edition Richard J Lazarus returns to his landmark book and takes stock of developments over the last two decades Drawing on many years of experience on the frontlines of legal and policy battles Lazarus provides a theoretical overview of the challenges that environmental protection poses for lawmaking related to both the distinctive features of US lawmaking institutions and the spatial and temporal dimensions of ecological change The book explains why environmental law emerged in the manner and form that it did in the 1970s and traces how it developed over sequent decades through key laws and controversies New chapters composing more than half of the second edition examine a host of recent developments These include how Congress dropped out of environmental lawmaking in the early twenty first century the shifting role of the judiciary long overdue efforts to provide environmental justice to disadvantaged communities and the destabilization of environmental law that has resulted from the election of Presidents with dramatically clashing environmental policies As the nation s partisan divide has grown deeper and the challenge of climate change has dramatically raised the perceived stakes for opposing interests environmental law is facing its greatest challenges yet This book is essential reading for understanding where we have been and what challenges and opportunities lie ahead

Plutonium Frank von Hippel, Masafumi Takubo, Jungmin Kang, 2019-12-23 This book provides a readable and thought provoking analysis of the issues surrounding nuclear fuel reprocessing and fast neutron reactors including discussion of resources economics radiological risk and resistance to nuclear proliferation It describes the history and science behind reprocessing and gives an overview of the status of reprocessing programmes around the world It concludes that such programs should be discontinued While nuclear power is seen by many as the only realistic solution to the carbon emission problem some national nuclear establishments have been pursuing development and deployment of sodium cooled plutonium breeder reactors and plutonium recycling Its proponents argue that this system would offer significant advantages relative to current light water reactor technology in terms of greater uranium utilization efficiency and that separating out the long lived plutonium and other transuranics from spent fuel and fissioning them in fast reactors would greatly reduce the duration of the toxicity of radioactive waste However the history of efforts to deploy this system commercially in a number of countries over the last six decades has been one of economic and technical failure and in some cases was used to mask clandestine nuclear weapon development programs Covering topics of significant public interest including nuclear safety fuel storage environmental impact and the spectre of nuclear terrorism this book presents a comprehensive analysis of the issue for nuclear engineers policy analysts government officials and the general public Frank von Hippel Jungmin Kang and Masafumi Takubo three internationally renowned nuclear experts have done a valuable service to the global community in putting together this book which both historically and comprehensively covers the plutonium age as we know it today They articulate in a succinct and clear manner their views on the dangers of a plutonium economy and advocate a ban on the separation of plutonium for use in the civilian fuel cycle in view of the high proliferation and nuclear security risks and lack of economic justification Mohamed ElBaradei Director General International Atomic Energy Agency 1997 2009 Nobel Peace Prize 2005 The 1960s dream of a plutonium economy has not delivered abundant low cost energy but instead has left the world a radioactive legacy of nuclear weapons proliferation and the real potential for nuclear terrorism Kang Takubo and von Hippel explain with power and clarity what can be done to reduce these dangers The governments of the remaining countries whose nuclear research and development establishments are still pursuing the plutonium dream should pay attention Senator Edward Markey a leader in the US nuclear disarmament movement as a member of Congress since 1976 The authors have done an invaluable service by putting together in one place the most coherent analysis of the risks associated with plutonium and the most compelling argument for ending the practice of separating plutonium from spent fuel for any purpose They have given us an easily accessible history of the evolution of thinking about the nuclear fuel cycle the current realities of nuclear power around the world and arguably most important a clear alternative path to deal with the spent fuel arising from nuclear reactors for decades to
