NAEP 1992 Mathematics State Report for New York National Assessment of Educational Progress, Princeton, NJ., 1993. In 1990, the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) included a Trial State Assessment, which for the first time in the NAEP's history, made voluntary state-by-state assessments. This 1992 mathematics report marks the first attempt of the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) to shift to standards-based reporting of National Assessment statistics. NAEP results are reported by achievement levels, which are descriptions of how students should perform relative to a body of content reflected in the NAEP frameworks. In other words, how much students should know.

The 1992 assessment covered six mathematics content areas:

1. numbers and operations
2. measurement
3. geometry
4. data analysis, statistics, and probability
5. algebra and functions
6. estimation

In the District of Columbia, 2,399 fourth-grade students in 107 public schools and 1,816 eighth-grade students in 35 public schools were assessed. This report describes the mathematics performance of District of Columbia fourth- and eighth-grade students in public schools and compares their overall performance to students in the Northeast region of the United States and the nation. The distribution of the results are provided for subpopulations of students including race, ethnicity, type of community, advantaged/disadvantaged, urban, extreme rural, and other parents' education level, gender, and content area performance.
