Reading Without Limits Maddie Witter, 2013-01-07 Imagine a classroom where all students are engaged in highly rigorous and fun learning every single day That classroom can be yours starting tomorrow You don t have to be a reading specialist to pick up this book Anyone who wants to dramatically improve reading achievement will find helpful suggestions You might be a third grade teacher whose students have mastered decoding and you are ready to build their comprehension Or you might be a high school science teacher whose students aren t yet reading on level with deep critical thinking This book is for you It doesn't matter whether you are a public charter private or alternative education teacher the Reading Without Limits program works in each one Along with hundreds of ready to use teaching strategies Reading Without Limits comes with a supplemental website where teachers can download even more resources for free Reading Without Limits is the first book offered in the KIPP Educator Series KIPP or the Knowledge is Power Program began in 1994 As of Fall 2012 there are 125 KIPP schools in 20 states and the District of Columbia serving nearly 40 000 students climbing the mountain to and through college The New Handbook of Research on Music Teaching and Learning Richard Colwell, Carol

Richardson, 2002-04-18 Featuring chapters by the world's foremost scholars in music education and cognition this handbook is a convenient collection of current research on music teaching and learning This comprehensive work includes sections on arts advocacy music and medicine teacher education and studio instruction among other subjects making it an essential reference for music education programs The original Handbook of Research on Music Teaching and Learning published in 1992 with the sponsorship of the Music Educators National Conference MENC was hailed as a welcome addition to the literature on music education because it serves to provide definition and unity to a broad and complex field Choice This new companion volume again with the sponsorship of MENC explores the significant changes in music and arts education that have taken place in the last decade Notably several chapters now incorporate insights from other fields to shed light on multi cultural music education gender issues in music education and non musical outcomes of music education Other chapters offer practical information on maintaining musicians health training music teachers and evaluating music education programs Philosophical issues such as musical cognition the philosophy of research theory curriculum and educating musically are also explored in relationship to policy issues In addition to surveying the literature each chapter considers the significance of the research and provides suggestions for future study Covering a broad range of topics and addressing the issues of music education at all age levels from early childhood to motivation and self regulation this handbook is an invaluable resource for music teachers researchers and scholars Wayfinding Behavior Reginald G. Golledge, 1999-01-14

The metaphor of a cognitive map has attracted wide interest since it was first proposed in the late 1940s Researchers from fields as diverse as psychology geography and urban planning have explored how humans process and use spatial information often with the view of explaining why people make wayfinding errors or what makes one person a better navigator than another Cognitive psychologists have broken navigation down into its component steps and shown it to be an interplay of neurocognitive functions such as spatial updating and reference frames or perception action couplings But there has also been an intense debate among biologists over whether animals have cognitive maps or have other forms of internal spatial representations that allow them to behave as if they did Yet until now little has been done to relate research on human and non human subjects in this area In Wayfinding Behavior Cognitive Mapping and Other Spatial Processes Reginald Golledge brings together a distinguished group of scholars to offer a unique and comprehensive survey of current research in these diverse fields Among the common themes they discover is the psychologists black box approach in which the internal mechanisms of spatial perception and route planning are modeled or constructed like metaphors based on the behavioral evidence Cognitive neuroscientists on the other hand have attempted to discover the neurocognitive basis for spatial behavior They have shown for example that damage in the hippocampus system invariably impairs the ability of animals and humans to learn about remember and navigate through environments and studies in humans show that neurons in this system code for location direction and distance thereby providing the elements needed for a mapping system Artificial intelligence and robotics theorists attempt to construct intelligent mapping systems using computer technology In these areas there is growing evidence that as in human wayfinding processes useful representations cannot be achieved without sacrificing completeness and precision Wayfinding Behavior Cognitive Mapping and Other Spatial Processes offers not only state of the art knowledge about wayfinding but also represents a point of departure for future interdisciplinary studies The more we know concludes volume editor Reginald Golledge about how humans or other species can navigate wayfind sense record and use spatial information the more effective will be the building of future guidance systems and the more natural it will be for human beings to understand and control those systems
