of Nazism responsibility and guilt and the place of religion in the modern world and her later investigations into the nature of totalitarianism that Arendt set down after The Origins of Totalitarianism was published in 1951 The body of work gathered in this volume gives us a remarkable portrait of Arendt's developments as a thinker and confirms why her ideas and judgments remain as provocative and seminal today as they were when she first set them down

Living or dead present or absent sadly dysfunctional or merrily adequate the figure of the mother bears enormous freight across a child's emotional and intellectual life Given the vital role literary mothers play in books for young readers it is remarkable how little scholarly attention has been paid to the representation of mothers outside of fairy tales and beyond studies of gender stereotypes This collection of thirteen essays begins to fill a critical gap by bringing together a range of theoretical perspectives by a rich mix of senior scholars and new voices Following an introduction in which the coeditors describe key trends in interdisciplinary scholarship the book's first section focuses on the pedagogical roots of maternal influence in early children's literature The next section explores the shifting cultural perspectives and subjectivities of the twentieth century The third section examines the interplay of fantasy reality and the ethical dimensions of literary mothers The collection ends with readings of postfeminist motherhood from contemporary realism to dystopian fantasy The range of critical approaches in this volume will provide multiple inroads for scholars to investigate richer readings of mothers in children's and young adult literature

Sleeping in a Field Christopher D. Owens, 2001-05 At age 24 Dave Crider's life is at a crossroads and he is consumed by a deep and seemingly irresolvable angst Nearly paralyzed by his existential fears he seeks solace from cut and dried academia a nagging boss and a failing romantic relationship via excessive drinking fantasies of exotic women and his immersion into the rock and roll subculture At the end of a very long and self-destructive semester Dave embarks on a road trip in an attempt to regain some sense of balance in his off-kilter life Little can he imagine the spiritual and emotional roller coaster ride that awaits him on this soul-searching journey Set amidst a swirling backdrop of late 1970's hedonistic excess Sleeping in a Field captures the confusion and youthful anxiety of the times in a poetic fast-paced first person narrative

It is divided into two parts. The first section offers topical discussions on the status of provincial poets on women's engagement in children's literature, the relation of women writers to their religious backgrounds, the historical backgrounds to women's orientalism and their engagement in debates on slavery and abolition. The second part surveys the life and careers of individual women, some 47 in all, with sections for biography, biographical resources, works, modern editions, archival holdings, critical reception, and avenues for further research. The final sections of each essay offer further guidance for researchers, including Signatures under which the author published and a List of Works accompanied, whenever possible, with contemporary prices and publishing formats. The Bilingual Text Jan Walsh Hokenson, Marcella Munson, 2014-06-03 Bilingual texts have been left outside the mainstream of both translation theory and literary history Yet the tradition of the bilingual writer moving between different sign systems and audiences to create a text in two languages is a rich and venerable one going back at least to the Middle Ages The self translated bilingual text was commonplace in the multilingual world of medieval and early modern Europe frequently bridging Latin and the vernaculars While self translation persisted among cultured elites it diminished during the consolidation of the nation states in the long era of nationalistic monolingualism only to resurge in the postcolonial era The Bilingual Text makes a first step toward providing the fields of translation studies and comparative literature with a comprehensive account of literary self translation in the West It tracks the shifting paradigms of bilinguality across the centuries and addresses the urgent questions that the bilingual text raises for translation theorists today Is each part of the bilingual text a separate original creation or is each incomplete without the other Is self translation a unique genre Can either version be split off into a single language or literary tradition How can two linguistic versions of a text be fitted into standard models of foreign and domestic texts and cultures Because such texts defeat standard categories of analysis The Bilingual Text reverses the usual critical gaze highlighting not dissimilarities but continuities across versions allowing for dissimilarities within orders of correspondence and englobing the literary as well as linguistic and cultural dimensions of the text Emphasizing the arcs of historical change in concepts of language and translation that inform each case study The Bilingual Text examines the perdurance of this phenomenon in Western societies and literatures
