Act 2: Personal Response & Review Guide

the first depicting Juliet that he has been asked for "Queen Mab," "the fairest child" who "sits in a silken couch" made of "empty husks" and who "presents" them to their children's "senses." Mercutio is the first of sleeping women in this play. After Mercutio's disappearance and vivid imagination to prompt Romeo and others to look at their lives, Mercutio reassures him that dreaming about Rosaline is foolish, as there are many other beautiful women. Furthermore, when the usually witty nurse comes to visit the Romeo's balcony in act II, scene IV, Mercutio teases with her.

While Mercutio has a playful and witty side, he is an honest, loyal, and different character. His allegiance lies wholeheartedly with the Montagues and especially Romeo. In the marketplace brawl earlier in act II, scene I, Mercutio grows frustrated when Romeo refuses to fight the Capulet enemy, Tybalt. He swiftly takes Romeo's place and duels with Tybalt. His sudden and ironic death results in his death—Romeo steps in to stop the fight, and Tybalt fatally stabs Mercutio under Romeo's arm. At the end, Mercutio wishes "a plague on both your houses," illustrating his ever-changing nature and his capacity for both loyalty as well as revenge.

Collective Improvisation in a Teacher Education Community Linda Farr Darling, Gaalen Erickson, Anthony Clarke, 2007-06-04 As has been well illustrated in the other books in this series the notion of self study of teaching and teacher education practices has been taken up by teachers and teacher educators as they have searched for new ways of better understanding the complex work of teaching and learning Self study appears to be attractive to practitioners because a self study approach to researching practice is largely driven by their questions issues and concerns Therefore one immediate value of self study is in the way it can inform and almost immediately influence practice This book edited by Linda Farr Darling Gaalen Erickson and Tony Clarke offers an in depth investigation of the CITE program A Community of Inquiry in Teacher Education and is one of the few examples of that which might be described as an institutional self study Loughran 2005 As such the book illustrates the level of commitment and concern that these teacher educators have for their teacher education practices and for the learning about teaching of their student teachers They demonstrate that it is crucial to question the taken for granted and that in so doing to be careful to seek to be appropriately responsive to disconfirming data
