Ernst Neufert, Peter Neufert

Neufert Architects Data 4th Edition:

Architects' Data Ernst Neufert, Peter Neufert, 2012-03-26 Neufert's Architects Data is an essential reference for the initial design and planning of a building project. It provides in one concise volume the core information needed to form the framework for the more detailed design and planning of any building project. Organised largely by building type, it covers the full range of preliminary considerations and with over 6200 diagrams, it provides a mass of data on spatial requirements. Most illustrations are dimensioned and each building type includes plans, sections, site layouts and design details. An extensive bibliography and a detailed set of metric/imperial conversion tables are included. Since it was first published in Germany in 1936, Ernst Neufert's handbook has been progressively revised and updated through 39 editions and many translations. This fourth English language edition is translated from the 39th German edition and represents a major new edition for an international English speaking readership. Reviews of the Previous Edition: Neufert's Architects Data was the first book I bought when I started my studies in architecture. It was invaluable for me then and it is still a useful aid in my designs. Cesar Pelli. With this thorough rewrite, Neufert has produced yet again an invaluable reference book. The Architects Journal

The Architecture Reference & Specification Book Julia McMorrough, 2013-08 Most architectural standards references contain thousands of pages of details overwhelmingly more than architects need to know on any given day. The Architect in Practice David Chappell, Michael H. Dunn, 2016-01-26 Throughout its many editions, The Architect in Practice has remained a leading textbook used in the education of architects. While the content of the book has developed, the message and philosophy has remained constant to provide students of architecture and young practitioners with a readable guide to the profession, outlining an architect's duties to their client and contractor, the key aspects of running a building contract and the essentials of management, finance and drawing office procedure. The eleventh edition follows in that tradition. The text has been brought up to date to ensure it follows the new RIBA Plan of Work 2013 as the guide to the architect's workflow. In addition, a number of changes to standard forms of contract were made with the publication of the JCT 2011 suite of contracts and the RIBA

Standard Form for the Appointment of an Architect 2010 2012 Revision These new forms are fully covered In addition the opportunity has been taken to reorganise the layout so that the content flows in a way that is more consistent with current architectural practice and to deal with the increasing use of BIM The eleventh edition of The Architect in Practice continues to provide the guidance and advice all students and practising architects need in the course of their studies and in their profession

Spaces in Architecture Bert Bielefeld, 2019-04-01 The design of a building is a complex process in which the architect develops spaces which are defined by a number of different parameters The most important of these are space requirements distances furniture and fittings and movement zones From the dimensions of the human body it is possible to derive guide values for these reference sizes that make spaces comfortable to be in and to use Spaces in Architecture is a useful reference work for students and designers for quickly looking up detailed information on space scenarios that occur in many different types of buildings For example the book lists all important dimensions for entrance areas doors staircases ramps and elevators On the basis of this fundamental information it is possible to design buildings in terms of function and type and influences that made today's churches. Questions such as adapt or replace and concerns about design are addressed. This part also examines the role of today's clients and the possible types of churches and chapels that will prove desirable and satisfactory. Part II discusses the design process covering the need for a feasibility study and agreed design development. The feasibility study addresses retention of parts of the structure, size of the structure, costs and consideration of other building designs. Design analysis involves evaluation of the architectural considerations that include Western congregational halls, design ideas, check-ups and sketching. The details of the scheme design contain precise information that will serve as basis for the client to modify or accept and for the authorities to approve. Throughout this book, case studies that are relevant for each topic are also given. This guide is useful for administration of local parochial and district congregations. This book can likewise be appreciated by architects and structural engineers.
