Extension: Compare these pictures to your own home area. Is it more like the valley or the coastal area?

PRESENTATION

Factors influencing where people live

Activities and the environment influence the number of people who live in an area. The factors that influence where people live are physical and human.

Physical

Extension: Use a world map to identify areas where people live in each of the following factors.

WORKSHEET

Global Population Distribution

World maps show global population density and distribution. Study the world map and describe the differences between the two maps.

World Map

- The world's population is evenly distributed across the globe.
- The majority of people live in densely populated areas.
- The majority of people live in densely populated areas.
- The majority of people live in densely populated areas.
- The majority of people live in densely populated areas.

Population Density and Distribution

Some areas of the world are densely populated (red), with many people. Some areas are sparsely populated (green), with few people.

Factors influencing where people live:

Physical factors: climate, land use, water, soil, topography, and vegetation. Human factors: population, economy, services, and accessibility.

Population Density

Population density is the number of people living in a given area. It is calculated by dividing the total population by the total area.
