

Daily Journal Entries

May 18th by Jonathan Sarfin

Our first full day in Shanghai was very cool. We had a delicious breakfast with dumplings and congee, tofu and fried dough and then we went off to our first seminar at Shanghai University. I didn't know exactly what to expect, what the format would be or how formal the conversation was, but we were all very pleased and a little surprised to be engaged in a casual but lively conversation with our 10 counterparts from Shanghai U. It took us a little while to get acclimated, but all of us were very curious and had many questions to ask, not necessarily about politics or economics (although those did come up) but mostly about our lives in general, about our schooling and our thoughts about university. Some of our group was amazed that it only costs 6000 kuai per year to go to such a well-renowned university. On the other hand, Eric and Lynn (two of the Shanghai U students) were similarly shocked that tuition is so expensive in the United States. They expressed this sentiment again at lunch, which I really quite enjoyed. All 20 of us had lunch together, intermingling at tables with our food before us and getting to know each other. The lunch, even more casual than the seminar (for we were not separated by a long table as at the seminar) was probably my favorite part. Unfortunately we had to depart sooner than I would have liked, but it made me happy that we could exchange contact information like email addresses and even WeChat or WhatsApp numbers, and I look forward to staying in contact with my new friends.

We spent the afternoon at the free trade zone in Shanghai, which was also very interesting. The Chinese government, as I understand it, is conducting an experiment of sorts by letting businesses trade without any restriction or much oversight, which seems like quite a departure from what one might expect from China. We saw three "exhibitions" from different countries: Italy, Australia, and Russia, as well as the Factory to Consumer (F2C) wine zone. The exhibitions, which showcased all sorts of different products one could buy from each country, were very artfully constructed and displayed: Russia's sold matryoshka dolls, Australia's sold kangaroo skin rugs, and Italy's had some very expensive clothes from the fashion houses in Milan. The F2C was also very aesthetically pleasing in its construction and full of wine from hundreds of countries. We had a very informative tour and saw lots of very expensive wine (too expensive for me!) but what I thought was most interesting was the idea behind the F2C: it is to combat fraud and counterfeit or inferior wine, which is apparently a problem here. It was a little odd to me that one could not inherently trust the source from which one buys one's products, but I think it is better that the government is attempting to solve the problem rather than ignore it.

In the evening we took the metro into the heart of the city and went to Jing'an temple, which was so beautiful in the cool night air, surrounded by flashing lights and skyscrapers. We spent several hours strolling in the area and watching the people go by, which was so pleasant, and going into stores with brands we recognized and brands we
