The Effect of Student Performance Data on Special Education Instruction Paul J. Blass (Jr), 2015 The state of New Jersey implemented a new teacher evaluation system that requires student data be used as one measurement of a teacher's performance Up to 30% of a teacher's annual evaluation score will be derived from quantitative data One source of data is the student growth objective SGO by which teachers develop an assessment to measure their students progress For this phenomenological study the researcher conducted interviews that sought to gain insight into the experiences of four special education teachers as they fulfill the requirement to supply data for their annual evaluation Because the study involved special education teachers the researcher utilized a Disabilities Studies in Education DSE framework Disability studies supports the understanding of disabilities within broader social and political circumstances The primary research question that guided this study was What are the experiences of middle school special education teachers at a small suburban school who are newly mandated to use standardized student data to inform their pedagogical and curricular approaches The findings from the study indicate that these teachers did not feel that the SGOs as implemented were appropriate for special education students but the additional focus on data caused the teachers to pay closer attention to state curricular standards
