The Scientific Letters and Papers of James Clerk Maxwell: Volume 1, 1846-1862 James Clerk Maxwell, 1990-10-26
This is a comprehensive edition of Maxwell's manuscript papers published virtually complete and largely for the first time. Maxwell's work was of central importance in establishing and developing the major themes of the physics of the nineteenth century: his theory of the electromagnetic field and the electromagnetic theory of light and his special place in the history of physics. His fecundity of imagination and the sophistication of his examination of the foundations of physics give particular interest and importance to his writings. Volume I 1846-1862 documents Maxwell's education and early scientific work and his major period of scientific innovation: his first formulation of field theory, the electromagnetic theory of light and the statistical theory of gases. Important letters and manuscript drafts illuminate this fundamental early work and the volume includes his letters to friends and family, general essays and lectures and juvenilia. Free Will and Action Explanation Scott Sehon,2016-04-29 Do we have free will and moral responsibility Is free will compatible with determinism Scott Sehon argues that we can make progress on these questions by focusing on an underlying issue the nature of action explanation When a person acts or does something on purpose we explain the behavior by citing the agent s reasons The dominant view in philosophy of mind has been to construe such explanations as a species of causal explanation Part I of the book proposes and defends a non causal account of action and agency according to which reason explanation of human behavior is irreducibly teleological rather than causal Part II applies the teleological account of action to free will and responsibility arguing that the free actions the ones for which we are directly responsible are the goal directed actions the actions that are teleologically explicable in terms of our reasons It is then argued that this non causal account of action undermines the appeal of incompatibilist arguments arguments attempting to show that free will is not compatible with determinism Beyond this Sehon argues that the non causal compatibilist account works well in practice it is in accord with our clear intuitions about cases and it both explains and provides guidance in the cases where our intuitions are murkier
