It is argued that the use of guidelines of evidence-based management approaches such as MBAS and the associated underlying business objectives is important to the success of the implementation of the MBAS. However, the MBAS is not a one-size-fits-all solution. The MBAS is a management tool that is designed to be used in a way that is appropriate to the organization and its needs. Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks for physical and psychological health. The physical health assessment included measures of body mass index (BMI), waist circumference, and blood pressure. The psychological health assessment included measures of self-esteem, anxiety, and depression. The results of the study showed that the walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The walking program resulted in a significant decrease in BMI, waist circumference, and blood pressure. The walking program also resulted in a significant increase in self-esteem and a significant decrease in anxiety and depression. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program can improve the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract. The authors report on a study of the effects of a 10-week, 12-session, group-based intervention on the self-esteem and self-efficacy of 100 low-achieving, middle school students. The intervention was designed to help students develop a positive self-concept and to provide them with the skills and strategies necessary to succeed in school. The results of the study indicate that the intervention had a significant positive effect on the self-esteem and self-efficacy of the students. The authors discuss the implications of these findings for the development of effective interventions for low-achieving students.
