Black Beauty The Autobiography of a Horse By Anna Sewall

"To my dear and beloved Father,
when life, as low that for you,
has been devoted to the welfare of others,
this little book is affectionately dedicated."

The Hunt (Excerpt)

Before I was five years old, a circumstance happened which I have never forgotten. It was early in the spring there had been a little frost in the night, and a light wind still blew over the woods and meadows. I and the other colts were looking at the lowest part of the field where we grazed, quite in the distance, when suddenly like the cry of dogs, the voices of the other colts, we heard grunts to one, and said, "There are the hounds!" and immediately started off, followed by the rest of us to the upper part of the field, where we could look over the hedge and we heard grunts repeated. My mother and our master's old riding horse were also standing near, and seemed to know all about it.

"They have found a hare," said my mother, "and if they were this way we shall see the hare."

And soon the dogs were all leaving down the field of young colts next to ours. I could hardly wait a minute as they made. They did not bark, nor neigh, nor whin, but kept on a "get up as it get up as it" in the top of their voices. After there came a number of men on horseback, some of them wearing green coats, all galloping as fast as they could. The old horse started and looked eagerly after them, and our young colts wanted to be galloping with them, but we could not do that," said my mother and just then a hare would with a sudden leap and made for the woods. "I am an old horse, and have seen much a great deal, I never get much more and only now and then I get of years they often have excitement, often sport great horses, and run up the road and for a hour or a day, and they could get there easily other way that we are only horses, and that's true."

were soon away into the fields down down, but it seemed as if they had in a second, the dog left off barking, and we stood every colt with their in the ground.

"There had the hare," said the old horse, "perhaps the hare will get off of a hunt?" I said.

I don't know what hare, (only enough it may be one of our own hares) the words only that they are just will do for the dogs and here it was "and following the dog began their "get up as it" again, and back some grunts as full speed, making straight for our meadow in the where the high land and hedge marking the track.
