Section 1: Studying Human Populations - Part I

E.Q.: How has the human population growth changed over time and what are the properties that scientists use to study human populations?

Objectives

- Describe how the size and growth rate of the human population has changed in the last 200 years.
- Define four properties that scientists use to predict population sizes.
- Make predictions about population trends based on age structure.
- Describe the four stages of the demographic transition.
- Explain why different countries may be at different stages of the demographic transition.

Studying Human Populations

- Demography is the study of the characteristics of populations, especially human populations.
- Demographers study the historical size and makeup of the populations of countries to make comparisons and predictions.
- Demographers also study properties that affect population growth, such as economics and social structure.
- Countries with similar population trends are often grouped into two general categories: developed and developing countries.
