

Chapter 35 Nervous System

Observing Nervous Responses

Introduction

The nervous system runs to all parts of the body. Like a computer network, the nervous system carries impulses between the brain, the sensory organs, the muscles, and the glands.

A reflex action is a little different. It begins with a stimulated nerve, but it does not rely on the brain to produce the response. Your body performs many types of reflex actions. Sneezing is a reflex action in response to irritation of your nose. When you touch a hot object, you immediately pull your hand away. You might be aware of a reflex action occurring, but you are unable to stop or control it.

How do these reflex actions occur? When your hand touches a hot object, for example, heat receptors in the skin send an impulse to the muscles of the arm to contract. The impulse travels along the sensory neurons, to the spinal cord, across a synapse, and stimulates a motor neuron. The impulse leaves the spinal cord, passes through a nerve, and back to the arm muscles, causing them to contract and pull your hand away. This pathway is called a reflex arc. Because a reflex arc involves only the spinal cord and not the brain, a reflex action occurs in a matter of a fraction of a second. You are not able to control a reflex—it happens automatically.

In a nonreflex response, an impulse must travel to the brain. The brain interprets the stimulus and produces a response. This process takes longer than the time required for a reflex arc. A person's reaction time can be measured by how quickly he or she can perceive a stimulus and then react to it. Driving a car and playing tennis are examples of activities in which reaction time is very important.

In this investigation, you will observe reflex actions and measure your reaction time.

Problem

Can you control reflex actions? How can you measure reaction time?

Pre-Lab Discussion

Read the entire investigation. Then, work with a partner to answer the following questions.

1. What will you be comparing in this investigation?

2. Predict what will happen to your knee when it is tapped.

Socially Intelligent Agents Kerstin Dautenhahn, Alan H. Bond, Lola Canamero, Bruce Edmonds, 2006-04-11 Socially situated planning provides one mechanism for improving the social awareness of agents Obviously this work is in the preliminary stages and many of the limitations and the relationship to other work could not be addressed in such a short chapter The chief limitation of course is the strong commitment to defining social reasoning solely at the meta level which restricts the subtlety of social behavior Nonetheless our experience in some real world military simulation applications suggest that the approach even in its preliminary state is adequate to model some social interactions and certainly extends the state of the art found in traditional training simulation systems Acknowledgments This research was funded by the Army Research Institute under contract TAPC ARI BR

The Star Gate Archives Edwin C. May, Sonali Bhatt Marwaha, 2018-10-23 Star Gate is the largest funded program in the history of psi research receiving about 19.933 million in funding from 1972 to 1995 Researchers from SRI International and later at Science Applications International Corporation in association with various U.S. intelligence agencies participated in this program Using the remote viewing method research focused on understanding the applicability and nature of psi in general but mostly upon informational psi Volume 1 Remote Viewing 1972-1984 and Volume 2 Remote Viewing 1985-1995 include all aspects of RV including laboratory trials and several operational results Volume 3 focuses on laboratory investigations on psychokinesis Volume 4 Operational Remote Viewing Government Memorandums and Reports includes an analysis of the applied remote viewing program and a selection of documents that provide a narrative on the behind the scenes activities of Star Gate In a total of 504 separate missions from 1972 to 1995 remote viewing produced actionable intelligence prompting 89% of the customers to return with additional missions The Star Gate data indicate that informational psi is a scientifically valid phenomenon These data have led to the development of a physics and neuroscience based testable model for the underlying mechanism which considers informational psi as a normal albeit atypical phenomenon The Star Gate data found

Environmental Radiobiology Paul N. Schofield, Carmel E. Mothersill, 2023-10-17 This book focuses on the impacts of anthropogenic radiation on wildlife and ecosystems and provides an in depth look at the approaches and available tools we can use to gain information about biological effects of radiation in the environment The nuclear accidents in Chornobyl in 1986 and Fukushima in 2011 focussed the attention of the world on the vulnerability of ecosystems to radiation In Chornobyl there still remains an exclusion zone where levels are considered to be too high for people and impacts on terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems can still be measured 35 years later In the area impacted by the Fukushima disaster intense remediation is still under way at tremendous cost and causing widespread disruption to the environment That accident impacted the terrestrial and marine ecosystems In both accidents it became obvious that a radiation protection framework focussing on protection of humans a single species and using evacuation as a key strategy was not sufficient to protect the natural environment The complexity of ecosystems makes developing a protection framework very challenging but in order to even start the process it is vital to gather information about likely impacts of low dose exposures on wildlife and to develop monitoring tools to measure changes over time This book contains reviews and original research aimed at filling our knowledge gaps about these important areas Environmental Radiobiology will be a key resource for academics researchers and advanced students of Radiobiology Radioecology Biology Ecology Biomedicine and Research Methods The chapters included in this book were originally published as a special issue of International Journal of Radiation Biology
