

REVIEW 2: CELLSCELLS

Cells are the basic unit of both structure and function of all living organisms. This means that all living organisms are built out of cells and all the functions of a living organism are the result of the work of its cells. In other words, everything you do is the result of the work of your cells — walking, talking, even thinking and feeling. When you get sick, it is because your cells are not working correctly.

All cells come from existing cells. In other words, cells are only made from other cells growing and dividing in a process we call mitosis. This might seem obvious now, but at one time people believed in spontaneous generation, the idea that living things regularly emerged from nonliving things. Living creatures can be unicellular and made of only one cell (like a Paramecium or an Amoeba) or living creatures can be multicellular and made of many trillions of cells (like humans).

ORGANIZATION OF MULTICELLULAR BODIES

If cells are the building blocks of organisms, then how do you go from a trillion cells to an organized working body? This is done by organizing cells into coordinated groups:

- organelles are the working parts of cells
- cells are the working units of bodies
- tissues are a group of specialized cells working together in one function
- organs are a group of tissues working together
- an organ system is a group of tissues working together

Complete the labels on this diagram illustrating the organization of living creatures:

Here is a specific example of this organization in the human body:
