THE STIGMA OF ADDICTION

Stigma is another reason why the lives of people with addiction are harder. Stigma means that people with addiction are often treated differently than people without addiction. This can make it harder for them to get the help they need.

What can we do about stigma? One way is to talk about "people with addiction" and "people without addiction" instead of "addicts" and "non-addicts." Try to remember that people with addiction are just like everyone else. They have feelings, dreams, and hopes. We can all help to reduce stigma by treating people with addiction with respect and understanding.
