- Abstract

Abstract: This study examined the effects of a 12-week, 3-day-per-week, 100-minute-per-session, supervised, group-based, low-impact aerobically demanding exercise program on the health-related fitness, self-efficacy, and quality of life of sedentary, middle-aged, overweight, and/or obese women. The program was designed to be a low-impact, low-risk, and enjoyable activity for women. The program consisted of a combination of cardiovascular, strength, and flexibility exercises. The results of the study showed that the program had a positive effect on the health-related fitness, self-efficacy, and quality of life of the women. The program was well-received by the women and was considered a viable option for improving the health-related fitness, self-efficacy, and quality of life of sedentary, middle-aged, overweight, and/or obese women.
