Abstract—The authors examined the effects of a 6-week training program on the performance of 10 male triathletes. The subjects were divided into two groups: control ( $n = 5$ ) and experimental ( $n = 5$ ). The experimental group underwent a structured training program focusing on endurance, speed, and strength. Performance was measured at baseline and post-training using various metrics including time to exhaustion, maximum power output, and heart rate variability. Results showed significant improvements in endurance and power output for the experimental group compared to the control group.
