Uszkoreit,2012-07-25 This white paper is part of a series that promotes knowledge about language technology and its potential It addresses educators journalists politicians language communities and others The availability and use of language technology in Europe varies between languages Consequently the actions that are required to further support research and development of language technologies also differ for each language The required actions depend on many factors such as the complexity of a given language and the size of its community META NET a Network of Excellence funded by the European Commission has conducted an analysis of current language resources and technologies This analysis focused on the 23 official European languages as well as other important national and regional languages in Europe The results of this analysis suggest that there are many significant research gaps for each language A more detailed expert analysis and assessment of the current situation will help maximise the impact of additional research and minimize any risks META NET consists of 54 research centres from 33 countries that are working with stakeholders from commercial businesses government agencies industry research organisations software companies technology providers and European universities Together they are creating a common technology vision while developing a strategic research agenda that shows how language technology applications can address any research gaps by 2020 The Next Phase in Heritage Language Studies: Methodological

New to the LSP classroom? A selection of monographs on successful practices Martina Vránová, 2023-05-23 As Languages for Specific Purposes have always been defined as student oriented the rationale behind this volume is to use the rather neglected niche of the other necessary agent of language instruction and thus focus on the LSP practitioner This turn towards the instructor has been motivated by the fact that a great number of LSP practitioners enter their jobs without previous expertise They lack LSP education or they may not even have a background in applied linguistics This motivation has proven valid as many of the volume s contributors have faced this particular situation in their professional lives For insights into the LSP field and guidelines on the best practices they must rely on their colleagues who offer to share their experience through workshops conferences or papers which is what this volume provides The primary goal of this volume is to present considerations of what challenges LSP practitioners face and should be prepared for in their jobs and to provide practice tested methodological guidelines on such demanding teaching techniques as blended and flipped learning or tandem learning All papers have been written by LSP practitioners and researchers in higher education Thus this volume provides both guidance and self reflection In other words it is written by experienced LSP practitioners for aspiring LSP practitioners about how they see themselves and what effort they make to meet the challenges of their jobs As proof that LSP practice is a global challenge papers have been collected from many European countries the USA Uruguay Even though most papers are naturally concerned with English being the lingua franca of today the collection also features guidelines for teaching Spanish French and Dutch for specific purposes Moreover the target disciplines these languages are taught for encompass business engineering sociology or medicine thus supporting the assumption of the universal character of problems LSP practitioners deal with

The Phonetics and Phonology of Contrast Margaret E. L. Renwick, 2014-09-12 This book proposes that phonological contrast in particular the robustness of a phonemic contrast does not depend solely on the presence of minimal pairs but is instead affected by a set of phonetic usage based and systemic factors This perspective opens phonology to a more direct interpretation through phonetic analysis undertaken in a series of case studies on the Romanian vowel system Both the synchronic phonetics and morpho phonological alternations are studied to understand the forces that have historically shaped and now maintain the phonemic system of Romanian A corpus study of phoneme type frequency in Romanian reveals marginal contrasts among vowels in which a sharp distinction between allophones and phonemes fails to capture relationships among sounds An investigation of Romanian provides insight into the historical roots of marginal contrast and a large acoustic study of Romanian vowels and diphthongs is a backdrop for evaluating the phonetic and perceptual realization of marginal contrast The results provide impetus for a model in which phonology phonetics morphology and perception interact in a multidimensional way
