Freezer

Defrost Mode (Freezer)

Most restaurant freezers have a defrost heater timer: The defrost heater melts any frost that has accumulated on the evaporator (cooling) coil.

Make sure all managers know the times that the defrost mode begins. Freezer temperatures need monitored during each shift.

If the freezer rises in temperatures and it's not occurring during the defrost modes, lock the freezer wait a few minutes to see if the temperature drops. Also, check the breaker to see if the switch tripped. If the breaker did not trip and the temperature is not dropping, call for repairs immediately. This could be a major loss of revenue.

Walk-in Refrigerator

During each shift, the manager should frequently check temperatures to avoid food waste or spoilage.

If the walk-in refrigerator rises in temperature above 40°F, lock it and observe the temperature. The fan motor should be running at all times. Also, check to see if the breaker tripped. If the temperature stays above 40°F, then call for repairs. This could also be a major loss of revenue.

In Case of Robbery

If a robbery occurs, never fight back. This will only makes things worse. Cooperate and with the thief. It is not worth putting yourself, your guests and your coworker's lives in danger.

Observe the Following

- How tall is the thief? (Exits may have measurements posted on the sides of the door.)
- Male or female, hair color, eye color, skin tone
- What kind of clothing are they wearing?
- Are there any visible marks, such as – tattoos, birthmarks, or scars?
- Do you notice any accents or speech impairments?

Precautions

- Always enter the restaurant with two employees. Both employees should enter and do a walkthrough together. Look for anyone that might be hiding, anything out of order or suspicious. Check money safes or drawers for damage.
- When closing the restaurant always lock the door, and make sure that police or security can see into the restaurant through the windows.
- When counting money never count in view of the guest. Once the money is counted it need to be secured in a lock box or the safe in the office.
