Counselors can apply the principles of assessment to individual dependent consultation because very frequently using these principles, counselors can work with parents and school personnel to identify and define the student's problems in relation to the particular circumstances that would be contributing. Since the counselor has developed a comprehensive profile of the student's problems in the context of understanding circumstances, he or she can then develop strategies for changing the student's behavior, and thereby the counselor's behavior in school. Counselors can also work to modify the social context of the interrelationship between the student and the counselor. Possible therapeutic strategies include behavior contracting, positive reinforcement, and response cost. The behavioral consultation model can be represented by the following four areas of focus:

- Initial assessment: identify problems and contributing circumstances.
- Analysis: develop a comprehensive profile of student needs.
- Implementation: develop and implement behavior modification strategies.
- Evaluation: evaluate the efficacy of strategies and revise as appropriate.
