TO RECOVER FROM THE LOSS OF A loved one, you must first understand the nature of your loss. The loss of a loved one is a complex process that involves a series of stages. The first stage is the initial shock and denial. This is followed by a period of anger and bargaining. The third stage is depression, and the final stage is acceptance. It is important to understand that these stages are not linear and can overlap. The loss of a loved one is a process that takes time and patience. It is important to seek support from family and friends, and to consider professional help if needed. The loss of a loved one is a journey, and it is important to take time to grieve and to find meaning in the experience.

The opening scene includes a musical segue with reimagined old pop songs (your secret crush and a thousand words) and more reworked pop tunes to help create all the fun and silliness with the show.
