This book questions how directed aggression and micro aggression would affect minority women's identity formation and sense of belonging to their host country.

The Subjugation of Canadian Wildlife Max Foran, 2018-04-10. Hardly a day goes by without news of the extinction or endangerment of yet another animal species followed by urgent but largely unheeded calls for action. An eloquent denunciation of the failures of Canada's government and society to protect wildlife from human exploitation, Max Foran's The Subjugation of Canadian Wildlife argues that a root cause of wildlife depletions and habitat loss is the culturally ingrained beliefs that underpin management practices and policies. Tracing the evolution of the highly contestable assumptions that define the human wildlife relationship, Foran stresses the price wild animals pay for human self-interest. Using several examples of government oversight at the federal, provincial and territorial levels from the Species at Risk Act to the Biodiversity Strategy, Protected Areas Network and provincial management plans, this volume shows that wildlife policies are as much or more about human needs, priorities and profit as they are about preservation. Challenging established concepts including ecological integrity, adaptive management, sport hunting as conservation and the flawed belief that wildlife is a renewable resource, the author compels us to recognize animals as sentient individuals and as integral components of complex ecological systems. A passionate critique of contemporary wildlife policy, The Subjugation of Canadian Wildlife calls for belief change as the best hope for an ecologically healthy, wildlife-rich Canada.

Central European Judges Under the European Influence Michal Bobek, 2015-11-19. The onset of the 2004 EU enlargement witnessed a number of predictions being made about the approaches, capacity and ability of Central European judges who were soon to join the Union. Optimistic voices foreshadowed the deep transformative power that Europe was bound to exercise with respect to the judicial mentality and practice in the new Member States, while others painted gloomy pictures of post-Communist limited formalism and mechanical jurisprudence that could not be reformed, which were likely to undermine the very foundations of mutual trust and recognition. The judicial system of the Union is built upon. Ten years later, this volume revisits these predictions and critically assesses the evolution of Central European judicial mentality, institutions and constitutionality under the influence of the EU membership. Comparatively evaluating the situation in a number of Central European Member States in their socio-legal contexts, notably Poland, the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Hungary, Slovenia, Bulgaria and Romania, the volume offers unique insights into the process of non-Europeanisation of national legal systems and cultures.
