

A vintage photograph with a teal-to-yellow gradient overlay. It depicts three people on a sandy beach. On the left, a woman in a light-colored dress and a wide-brimmed straw hat with a feathered band is smiling and looking upwards. In the center, a man in a patterned shirt and dark shorts is also smiling. On the right, a shirtless man in dark shorts is walking towards the right. The entire image is framed by a thin red border.

Once Upon A Time In Melbourne

Sir Reginald St.-Johnston

Once Upon A Time In Melbourne:

Melbourne's Logging Era Ed Vosatka, 2012 Melbourne was a quiet coastal town of 157 people on Florida's Indian River lagoon. Farming, ranching, fishing, and related trades supported the local economy. Melbourne entered the industrial age in 1912 when the Union Cypress Company began manufacturing lumber from the private cypress and pine holdings of George W. Hopkins at Deer Park. This timber had a 1911 market value of over 2 million. Good employment and a local source of lumber brought development, and the company-owned mill town of Hopkins was eventually annexed by Melbourne. The company provided Melbourne's first electricity and outpatient hospital. The Union Cypress Railway provided the first direct route to Florida's interior across the impenetrable St. Johns River and marsh, saving over 100 miles and countless hours of back-road travel via Enterprise, which was 80 miles to the north. It opened the vast St. Johns prairie lands for settlement and carried much of the regional commerce.

Family Experiments Shelley Richardson, 2016-11-30 Family Experiments explores the forms and undertakings of family that prevailed among British professionals who migrated to Australia and New Zealand in the late nineteenth century. Their attempts to establish and define family in Australasian suburban environments reveal how the Victorian theory of separate spheres could take a variety of forms in the new world setting. The attitudes and assumptions that shaped these family experiments may be placed on a continuum that extends from John Ruskin's concept of evangelical motherhood to John Stuart Mill's rational secularism. Central to their thinking was a belief in the power of education to produce civilised and humane individuals who, as useful citizens, would individually and in concert nurture a better society. Such ideas pushed them to the forefront of colonial liberalism. The pursuit of higher education for their daughters merged with and, in some respects, influenced first-wave colonial feminism. They became the first generation of colonial middle-class parents to grapple not only with the problem of shaping careers for their sons but also, and more frustratingly, what graduate daughters might do next.

Loading the Silence: Australian Sound Art in the Post-Digital Age Linda Ioanna Kouvaras, 2016-05-13 The experimentalist phenomenon of noise as constituting art in much twentieth-century music paradoxically reached its zenith in Cage's silent piece 4'33". But much post-1970s musical endeavour with an experimentalist telos, collectively known as sound art, has displayed a postmodern need to load modernism's degree zero. After contextualizing experimentalism from its inception in the early twentieth century, Dr. Linda Kouvaras's Loading the Silence: Australian Sound Art in the Post-Digital Age explores the ways in which selected sound art works demonstrate creatively how sound is embedded within local, national, gendered, and historical environments. Taking Australian music as its primary but not sole focus, the book not only covers discussions of technological advancement but also engages with aesthetic standpoints through numerous interviews, theoretical developments, analysis, and cultural milieux for a contemporary Australian and wider postmodern context. Developing new methodologies for synergies between musicology and cultural studies, the book uncovers a new post-postmodern aesthetic trajectory which Kouvaras locates as developing over the past two decades, the altermodern Australian sound art is here put firmly on the map of international debates about contemporary music providing a standard reference and valuable resource for practitioners in the artform music critics scholars and educators Black Mercuries David K. Wiggins, Kevin B. Witherspoon, Mark Dyreson, 2023-02-08 An essential source on African American athletes and Olympic history Booklist Starred Review and Named a Booklist Top 10 Sports Book of 2023 The first book to fully chronicle the struggles and triumphs of African American athletes in the Modern Olympic summer games In the modern Olympic Games from 1896 through the present African American athletes have sought to honor themselves their race and their nation on the global stage But even as these incredible athletes have served to promote visions of racial harmony in the supposedly apolitical Olympic setting many have also bravely used the games as a means to bring attention to racial disparities in their country and around the world In Black Mercuries African American Athletes Race and the Modern Olympic Games David K Wiggins Kevin B Witherspoon and Mark Dyreson explore in detail the varied experiences of African American athletes specifically in the summer games They examine the lives and careers of such luminaries as Jesse Owens Rafer Johnson Wilma Rudolph Florence Griffith Joyner Michael Johnson and Simone Biles but also many African American Olympians who have garnered relatively little attention and whose names have largely been lost from historical memory In recounting the stories of these Black Olympians Black Mercuries makes clear that their superior athletic skills did not always shield them from the racial tropes and insensitivity spewed by fellow athletes the media spectators and many others Yet in part because of the struggles they faced African American Olympians have been extraordinarily important symbolically throughout Olympic history serving as role models to future Black athletes and often putting their careers on the line to speak out against enduring racial inequality and discriminatory practices in all walks of life The Story of Australia
