Liberalising the Accounting Curriculum in University Education Alan Sangster, Richard M.S. Wilson, 2014-10-29 This book presents the views of accounting educators accounting education policy makers and accounting practitioners from across the world on the challenging topic of liberalising the accounting curriculum within university education Accounting is a relatively new subject within universities and has been absorbed into a high level of education without any real attempt to do so within the traditional ethos of a liberal arts education In this book the logic of teaching using the liberal arts is described and contrasted with the practical vocational training approach of teaching which has formed the foundation of accountancy courses for many years A proposal to change this established practice by integrating the liberal arts into the university accounting curriculum is followed by a series of short chapters which address the relevance validity and worthiness of the proposed approach Comments and counter arguments are then discussed before further chapters illustrate how the proposed change may be achieved in a variety of different contexts ranging from that of the global financial crisis which began in 2008 to the inclusion of ethics and sustainability within the accounting curriculum This book will aid those teaching accounting in universities to improve the design of their accounting degree programmes by moving away from an excessive emphasis on technical skills towards a broader consideration of a liberal contextualisation of the accounting curriculum This book was originally published as a special issue of Accounting Education an international journal Social Accounting and Public Management Stephen P. Heuristic Reasoning in Management Accounting Jörn Sebastian Basel, Jörn Basel, 2012 Heuristics are short cuts and deliberately ignore information for instance through examining fewer cues or integrating less information However this collides with a view on management accountants and controllers as rational agents which seems to suggest that all available information should be considered As their role as information supplier is often accompanied with the task to assist managers in their judgment and decision making they have huge influence on these processes Therefore it is of high relevance to know if how and which heuristics management accountants and controllers use Furthermore we need to know which individual and situational factors influence their usage of heuristics With a series of five empirical studies applying a mixed methods research design the author sheds light to these research questions and addresses some central claims of the potential biases but also the stunning benefits of relying on heuristic reasoning Central to his discussion are dual process approaches which are debated in cognitive psychology Scholars of these approaches claim that we should distinguish between two distinct processes or systems of the human mind Following this interpretation heuristics are processes which are described as intuitive automatic fast and unconscious They are routinized cognitive processes which are based on experience in certain social environments and thus often exhibit ecological rationality Overall this book picks up an up to date topic in behavioural accounting research which not only is of relevance for researchers but as well for practitioners
