

Should Euthanasia be Legal

Bob Dent, who lives in Darwin, Australia, was the first person to ever participate in euthanasia. He was able to do this because of the Terminally Ill Act, which had become law in the northern territory of Australia on July 1st, 1996 (Fraser and Walter). Bob's case is important because of he was the first to go through with it and his attitude towards it. He had more than a few words to say regarding the topic. He pleaded that this compassionate legislation should be respected, he also added that he was very grateful for being able to die with dignity and compassion (Fraser and Walter). He then went on to explain why he was choosing to be euthanized.

He described about being in pain and while being in pain, he would watch his wife suffer to take care of him. He didn't want to see her suffer. He also included that the state and the church are in two separate categories. He said that no one because of their religion could make him abide to their rules until a doctor decides he's had an enough and increases his pain medication, which was morphine, until he dies (Fraser and Walter).

In October 2015, governor of California, Jerry Brown, signed the law legalizing euthanasia in California. Governor Brown legalized this because of how he would feel if he was dying and doesn't want to deny the others right to do that (Brooker). People who oppose it are usually people believe it is religiously wrong or that it shouldn't be a option because of hospice care, which gives doctors more power and is not in the best interests of the patient. There are two types of euthanasia, active and passive euthanasia. Active euthanasia when death is brought by an act (for ex: lethal injection) (BBC). passive euthanasia is when death brought on by an emission (for ex: withholding treatment) (BBC).

My thesis is that euthanasia should be legal. Euthanasia allows terminally ill patients die with dignity. The word euthanasia in itself means in greek, good death. So why should someone who wants a good death be denied of one, when there's a law allowing it. Euthanasia is an act of putting people who are in pain with no cure insight to death without pain (Goel). Most people disagree with euthanasia because they believe death should be natural occurence in life without help (Goel). Imagine someone with creutzfeldt jakob disease, where the symptoms are: progressive dementia, personality changes, problems with muscle coordination, depression, difficulty speaking and swallowing and insomnia, which could eventually lead to: heart failure, pneumonia, respiratory failure etc (Mayo clinic).

There is no cure insight for this disease. Patients who have this disease have at least a year plus before they meet their demise. Though, before that point, they are usually in a coma. This condition is very deadly with 90% dying the first year and 10% being lucky enough to see two years (National institute of disorders and stroke). Dying with this disease, you will bas

Composition and Literature Jesse Jones, Veva Vonler, Janet Harris, 1987 This book focuses on composition the art and craft of writing It presents works of literature in various forms as examples and products of that writing And through the writing and reading opportunities provided it encourages the exploration of human experience In other words this textbook emphasizes the interrelatedness of writing literature and life The book is arranged according to the stages of life childhood adolescence adulthood old age and death Chap 1 Crossing Borders, Drawing

Boundaries Barbara Couture, Patti Wojahn, 2016-03-01 With growing anxiety about American identity fueling debates about the nation's borders, ethnicities, and languages, Crossing Borders: Drawing Boundaries provides a timely and important rhetorical exploration of divisionary bounds that divide an Us from a Them. The concept of border calls for attention, and the authors in this collection respond by describing it, challenging it, confounding it, and at times erasing it. Motivating us to see anew the many lines that unite, divide, and define us, the essays in this volume highlight how discourse at borders and boundaries can create or thwart conditions for establishing identity and admitting difference. Each chapter analyzes how public discourse at the site of physical or metaphorical borders presents or confounds these conditions and consequently effective participation, a key criterion for a modern democracy. The settings are various, encompassing vast public spaces such as cities and areas within them, the rhetorical spaces of history books, museum displays, activist events, and media outlets, and the intimate settings of community and classroom conversations. Crossing Borders: Drawing Boundaries shows how rich communication can be when diverse cultures intersect and create new opportunities for human connection, even while different populations, cultures, age groups, and political parties adopt irreconcilable positions. It will be of interest to scholars in rhetoric and literacy studies and students in rhetorical analysis and public discourse. Carefully crafted, well-written, and thoroughly indexed, the encyclopedia helps users, whether they are students just beginning formal study of the broad field or specialists in a branch of psychology, understand the field and how and why humans behave as we do. The work is an all-encompassing reference providing a comprehensive and definitive review of the field. A broad and inclusive table of contents ensures detailed investigation of historical and theoretical material as well as in-depth analysis of current issues. Several disciplines may be involved in applied ethics; one branch of applied ethics, for example, bioethics, is commonly explicated in terms of ethical, legal, social, and philosophical issues. Editor in Chief Ruth Chadwick has put together a group of leading contributors ranging from philosophers to practitioners in the particular fields in question to academics from disciplines such as law and economics. The 376 chapters are divided into 4 volumes, each chapter falling into a subject category including Applied Ethics, Bioethics, Computers and Information Management, Economics, Business, Environmental Ethics, Ethics and Politics, Legal, Medical Ethics, Philosophy, Theories, Social, and Social Media. Concise entries, ten pages on average, provide foundational knowledge of the field. Each article will feature suggested readings pointing readers to additional sources for more information, a list of related websites, a 5-10 word glossary, and a definition paragraph and cross references to related articles in the encyclopedia Newly expanded editorial board and a host of international contributors from the US Australia Belgium Canada France Germany Ireland Israel Japan Sweden and the United Kingdom The 376 chapters are divided into 4 volumes each chapter falling into a subject category including Applied Ethics Bioethics Computers and Information Management Economics Business Environmental Ethics Ethics and Politics Legal Medical Ethics Philosophy Theories Social and Social Media Essentials of Lawyering Skills in Africa Festus Emiri, Ernest Owusu-Dapaa, 2020-07-01 In twenty two chapters divided into six parts for convenience the authors not only lay bare the art of lawyering but also provide invaluable nuggets of perfecting and excelling as a solicitor and advocate There is little doubt that the contents of this book dramatically make a lawyer especially the lawyer in Africa to be more effective more skilful and a proper lawyer useful to the client and society Thinking Through Genre Heather Lattimer, 2003 Supports English teachers who seek to engage their students in genre studies in the reading and writing workshop The book profiles six different units of study memoir feature article editorial short story fairy tale and response to literature Each study is set in an individual fifth through tenth grade classroom and is described from its theoretical foundations through the planning for the specific needs of the students to the teaching and finally evaluation Michigan Law Review ,2002 The Allyn & Bacon Sourcebook for College Writing Teachers James C.
