Theory and Practice of Writing William Grabe, Robert B. Kaplan, 2014-09-25 This book undertakes a general framework within which to consider the complex nature of the writing task in English both as a first and as a second language. The volume overviews text-linguistic research, explores process approaches to writing, discusses writing for professional purposes and contrastive rhetoric. It proposes a model for text construction as well as a framework for a more general theory of writing. Later chapters, organized around seventy-five themes for writing instruction, are devoted to the teaching of writing at the beginning, intermediate, and advanced levels. Writing assessment and other means for responding to writing are also discussed. William Grabe and Robert Kaplan summarize various theoretical strands that have been recently explored by applied linguists and other writing researchers and draw these strands together into a coherent overview of the nature of written text.
