Least Action Principle of Crystal Formation of Dense Packing Type and Kepler's Conjecture Wu Yi Hsiang, 2001 The dense packing of microscopic spheres i.e. atoms is the basic geometric arrangement in crystals of mono atomic elements with weak covalent bonds which achieves the optimal known density of BCC In 1611 Johannes Kepler had already conjectured that BCC should be the optimal density of sphere packings Thus the central problems in the study of sphere packings are the proof of Kepler's conjecture that BCC is the optimal density and the establishing of the least action principle that the hexagonal dense packings in crystals are the geometric consequence of optimization of density This important book provides a self contained proof of both using vector algebra and spherical geometry as the main techniques and in the tradition of classical geometry

The Architecture of Home in Cairo Mohamed Gamal Abdelmonem, 2016-03-03 The hawari of Cairo narrow non straight alleyways are the basic urban units that have formed the medieval city since its foundation back in 969 AD Until early in the 20th they made up the primary urban divisions of the city and were residential in nature Contemporary hawari by contrast are increasingly dominated by commercial and industrial activity This medieval urban maze of extremely short broken zigzag streets and dead ends are defensible territories powerful institutions and important social systems While the hawari have been studied as an exemplar for urban structure of medieval Islamic urbanism and as individual building typologies this book is the first to examine in detail the socio spatial practice of the architecture of home in the city It investigates how people live communicate and relate to each other within their houses or shared spaces of the alleys and in doing so to uncover several new socio spatial dimensions and meanings in this architectural form In an attempt to re-establish the link between architecture past and present and to understand the changing social needs of communities this book uncovers the notion of home as central to understand architecture in such a city with long history as Cairo It firstly describes the historical development of the domestic spaces indoor and outdoor and provides an inclusive analysis of spaces of everyday activities in the hawari of old Cairo It then broadens its analysis to other parts of the city highlighting different customs and representations of home in the city at large Cairo in the context of this book is represented as the most sophisticated urban centre in the Middle East with different and sometimes contrasting approaches to the architecture of home as a practice and spatial system In order to analyse the complexity and interconnectedness of the components and elements of the hawari as a collective home it layers its narratives of architectural and social developments as a domestic environment over the past two hundred years and in doing so explores the in depth social meaning and performance of spaces both private and public

Feminist Periodicals and Daily Life Barbara Green, 2017-10-03 This volume uncovers the ideas concerning everyday life circulating in the burgeoning feminist periodical culture of Britain in the early twentieth century Barbara Green explores the ways in which the feminist press used its correspondence columns women's pages fashion columns and short fictions to display the quiet hum of everyday life that provided the backdrop to the more dramatic events of feminist activism such as street marches or protests Positioning itself at the interface of periodical studies and everyday life studies Feminist Periodicals and Daily Life illuminates the more elusive aspects of the periodical archive through a study of those periodical forms that are particularly well suited to conveying the mundane Feminist journalists such as Rebecca West Teresa Billington Greig E M Delafield and Emmeline Pethick Lawrence provided new ways of conceptualizing the significance of domestic life and imagining new possibilities for daily routines p

The Phenomenology of the Noema J.J. Drummond, Lester Embree, 2013-06-29 Philosophers contributing new ideas are commonly caught within a received philosophical vocabulary and will often coin new technical terms Husserl understood himself as advancing a new theory of intentionality and he fashioned the new vocabulary of noesis and noema But Husserl's own statements regarding the noema are ambiguous Hence it is no surprise that controversy has ensued The articles in this book elucidate and clarify the notion of the noema the book includes articles which phenomenologically describe and analyze the noemata of various experiences as well as articles which undertake the metaphenomenological explication of the doctrine of the noema These two enterprises cannot be isolated from one another Any analysis of the noema of a particular type of experience will necessarily illustrate at least by instantiating the general notion of noema And any metaphenomenological account of the noema itself will guide
