are also important drivers of plant diversity. These anthropogenic activities can affect plant diversity patterns not only directly but also indirectly through their effects on habitat loss and habitat fragmentation. Therefore, the current plant diversity patterns are the result of many interacting factors and need to be interpreted from a more comprehensive perspective. This Research Topic will therefore provide a platform for sufficient communication aiming to integrate the research from different fields and deepen the understanding of the patterns and drivers of plant diversity. We encourage the submission of theoretical and experimental studies on different plant groups such as seed plants, ferns, mosses, and algae. Studies based on new methods and technology such as genomics and drones are also welcomed. We welcome the following specific topics: Effects of historical factors such as paleoclimate and geological events on plant diversity; Plant diversity that is driven by contemporary climate and anthropogenic activities; The effect of habitat loss and fragmentation on plant diversity; New methods of research on the patterns and drivers of plant diversity.
