different interest groups and their recommendations create a ground swell of business community and political support Good Organizational Master Plans are flexible and have involved the business leaders and other stakeholders from the outset giving the plan a legitimate base and a better chance to come to fruition While circumstances vary from place to place the decision to develop a master plan is often determined by the need to understand the current conditions of the marketplace to generate and build stakeholder interest and participation to create a new and common vision for the future and or to develop a clear and solid set of recommendations and implementation strategy Susan Rademacher executive director of the Louisville Olmsted Parks Conservancy had this to say about the process of developing Louisville s Organizational Master Plan When we got started with our master plan there were a few important things that we focused on One was that we started with a belief in the native intelligence of this community from 1888 forward And we invited the public to really dream about what these parks could be what they remembered the parks as and we tried to change expectations in that way Typically in the past the little changes that come about in parks are politically motivated to get a big bang in the short term for the next election And our parks were suffering from that So when we invited the community to dream large we changed the expectations and also changed the expectations of what the public sector was looking to do
