activities that light up the otherwise mostly dark Earth. These night time light satellite images can be compiled into a geospatial time series that represent an invaluable source of information for both the natural and social sciences. Night time light remote sensing has been shown to be particularly useful for a range of natural science and social science applications including studies relating to urban development, demography, sociology, fishing activity, light pollution and the consequences of civil war. Key sensors for these time series include the Defense Meteorological Satellite Program's Operational Linescan System (DMSP OLS) and the Suomi National Polar-orbiting Partnership Satellite's Visible Infrared Imaging Radiometer Suite (Day-Night Band). Suomi NPP VIIRS DNB. An increasing number of alternative sources are also available including high spatial resolution and multispectral sensors. This book captures key methodological issues associated with pre-processing night time light data, documents state-of-the-art analysis methods and explores a wide range of applications. Major sections focus on NPP VIIRS DNB processing, inter-calibration between NPP VIIRS and DMSP OLS, applications associated with socio-economic activities, applications in monitoring urbanization and fishing activity, monitoring. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Remote Sensing.
