Extraterrestrials in the Catholic Imagination Jennifer Rosato,Alan Vincelette,2021-02-10 What do scientists know about the possibility of life outside our solar system How does Catholic science ction imagine such worlds What are the implications for Catholic thought This collection brings together leading scientists philosophers theologians and science fiction authors in the Catholic tradition to examine these issues In the first section Christian scientists detail the latest scientific findings regarding the possibility of life on exoplanets The second part brings together leading Catholic science fiction authors who describe how alien life forms have been prevalent in the Catholic imagination from the Middle Ages right up to the present day In the final section Catholic philosophers and theologians examine the implications of discovering intelligent life elsewhere in the universe Rather than worrying that the discovery of intelligent extraterrestrials might threaten the dignity of humans or their existence the contributors here maintain that such creatures should be welcomed as fellow creatures of God and potential subjects of divine salvation Science as a Process David L. Hull,2010-12-15 Legend is overdue for replacement and an adequate replacement must attend to the process of science as carefully as Hull has done I share his vision of a serious account of the social and intellectual dynamics of science that will avoid both the rosy blur of Legend and the facile charms of relativism Because of Hull s deep concern with the ways in which research is actually done Science as a Process begins an important project in the study of science It is one of a distinguished series of books which Hull himself edits Philip Kitcher Nature In Science as a Process David Hull argues that the tension between cooperation and competition is exactly what makes science so successful Hull takes an unusual approach to his subject He applies the rules of evolution in nature to the evolution of science arguing that the same kinds of forces responsible for shaping the rise and demise of species also act on the development of scientific ideas Natalie Angier New York Times Book Review By far the most professional and thorough case in favour of an evolutionary philosophy of science ever to have been made It contains excellent short histories of evolutionary biology and of systematics the science of classifying living things an important and original account of modern systematic controversy a counter attack against the philosophical critics of evolutionary philosophy social psychological evidence collected by Hull himself to show that science does have the character demanded by his philosophy and a philosophical analysis of evolution which is general enough to apply to both biological and historical change Mark Ridley Times Literary Supplement Hull is primarily interested in how social interactions within the scientific community can help or hinder the process by which new theories and techniques get accepted The claim that science is a process for selecting out the best new ideas is not a new one but Hull tells us exactly how scientists go about it and he is prepared to accept that at least to some extent the social activities of the scientists promoting a new idea can affect its chances of being accepted Peter J Bowler Archives of Natural History I have been doing philosophy of science now for twenty five years and whilst I would never have claimed that I knew everything I felt that I had a really good handle on the nature of science Again and again Hull was able to show me just how incomplete my understanding was Moreover Science as a Process is one of the most compulsively readable books that I have ever encountered Michael Ruse Biology and Philosophy A Guidebook for the Jerusalem Pilgrimage in the Late Middle Ages Josephie Brefeld,1994 Handbook of Stemmatology Philipp Roelli,2020-09-07 Stemmatology studies aspects of textual criticism that use genealogical methods to analyse a set of copies of a text whose autograph has been lost This handbook is the first to cover the entire field encompassing both theoretical and practical aspects of traditional as well as modern digital methods and their history As an art ars stemmatology s main goal is editing and thus presenting to the reader a historical text in the most satisfactory way As a more abstract discipline scientia it is interested in the general principles of how texts change in the process of being copied Thirty eight experts from all of the fields involved have joined forces to write this handbook whose eight chapters cover material aspects of text traditions the genesis and methods of traditional Lachmannian textual criticism and the objections raised against it as well as modern digital methods used in the field The two concluding chapters take a closer look at how this approach towards texts and textual criticism has developed in some disciplines of textual scholarship and compare methods used in other fields that deal with descent with modification The handbook thus serves as an introduction to this interdisciplinary field Conceptual Issues in Evolutionary Biology Elliott Sober,1994 There has been debate in philosophy of biology over the decade since the first edition of this anthology appeared Changes and additions in the new edition reflect the ways in which the subject has broadened and deepened on several fronts more than half of the chapters are new In all twenty three selections take up fitness function and teleology adaptationism units of selection essentialism and population thinking species systematic philosophies phylogenetic inference reduction of Mendelian genetics to molecular biology ethics and sociobiology and cultural evolution and evolutionary epistemology Naming Nature: The Clash Between Instinct and Science Carol Kaesuk Yoon,2010-08-02 Examines the history of taxonomy describing the quest of scientists to name and classify living things from Carl Linnaeus to early twenty first century scientists who rely more on microscopic evidence than their senses which has encouraged an indifference to nature that is responsible for the extinction of many species

Clark,2013-03-30 This book examines prehistoric culture change in the Gulf of Georgia region of the northwest coast of North America during the Locarno Beach 3500 1100 BP and Marpole 2000 1100 BP periods The Marpole culture has traditionally been seen to possess all the traits associated with complex hunter gatherers on the northwest coast hereditary inequality multi family housing storage based economies resource ownership wealth accumulation etc while the Locarno Beach culture has not This research examined artifact and faunal assemblages as well as data for art and mortuary architecture from a total of 164 Gulf of Georgia archaeological site components Geographic location and ethnographic language distribution were also compared to the archaeological data Analysis was undertaken using Integrative Distance Analysis IDA a new statistical model developed in the course of this research Results indicated that Marpole culture was not a regional phenomenon but much more spatially and temporally discrete than previously thought Artifactual assemblages identified as Marpole were restricted to the areas of the Fraser River northern Gulf Islands and portions of Vancouver Island In contrast the ethnographic territory of the Straits Salish showed no sign of Marpole culture but rather a presence of Late Locarno Beach culture The pattern found in artifacts was replicated in the distribution of art and mortuary architecture variation suggesting the cultural differences between Marpole and Late Locarno Beach cultures was real and not merely a statistical anomaly Published in English
