Constructing Power: A Critical and Constructivist Theory Using the American Case Kirby L. Wedekind, 2025-02-28

This book asserts that there exists a causal relationship between identity interest and the exercise of power. The work defines power as the ability to satisfy oneself which makes power contingent upon belief. It also dissects the concepts of identity interest and power to reveal how each works and relate to the others. This analysis creates a new theory of power using constructivism informed by critical theory departing from neorealist and neoliberal perspectives. The work uses the United States to test the theory by examining US national identity interest and exercises of power. A deconstruction of American Exceptionalism proceeds three case studies and runs as a theme to connect each unifying the work. A military operation in 2016 against the Islamic State in Libya the 2014 Russian annexation of Crimea and the whiplash caused by US participation in the 2015 Paris Agreement serve as the three case studies for analyzing US identity interest and power through the theory. This work proposes a new way of understanding power based on constructivism and informed by critical theory that applies to interpersonal and international relationships. Every relation is a power relation and power is the ability to satisfy oneself. This book provides insight into the underlying causes and machinations that transpire within every kind of social relation. This is a significant shift in how power is understood and applied in politics the military business and interpersonal relationships. This book seeks to provide the reader with greater and clearer understanding of themselves the world in which they live and why it exists as such.

Strange Highways: Reading Science Fantasy, 1950-1967 John Boston, Damien Broderick, 2013-01-15

Science Fantasy blends science fiction AND fantasy so it tends to be bolder and more highly colored than pure science fiction. In the middle of the last century the British magazine SCIENCE FANTASY created its own distinctive strains of fantasy narrative most famously by such writers as Brian W Aldiss J G Ballard John Brunner Michael Moorcock and Thomas Burnett Swann among others. This book looks closely at the whole trajectory of that lost magazine from its birth in 1950 through 1967 when it was briefly called SF Impulse. John Boston provides a brilliantly insightful and often every funny account of the rise evolution and final fall of SCIENCE FANTASY its writers and its quirky editors. Boston is joined by writer and critic Damien Broderick adding his own waspish and nostalgic comments. This volume the first of three dealing with the history and development of the major British SF magazines is a compelling night journey into the past where the future took a turn down paths not often explored. It s a trip not to be missed.
