Romance and Exemplarity in Post-war Spanish Women's Narratives Nino Kebabdzé, 2009 A reading of women's post war literary representations in terms of exemplarity The effects of General Francisco Franco's authoritarian rule 1939-1975 on the production and reception of cultural texts can be gauged by the silence that now surrounds them This is especially true of works which enjoyed considerable popularity when first published Most of the novels in question belong to the sentimental genre known as novela rosa whose authors mostly women and heroines Academe has consistently treated as literary pariahs This volume represents the first serious effort to question the categories used to assess the value and meaning of texts previously presumed to be devoid of both It does so by bringing to the fore the operative premise of Francoist cultural politics wherein fictional works have the power to mould individual character and conduct Narratives by Luisa Mar a Linares Concha Linares Becerra Carmen de Icaza and Mar a Mercedes Ortoll are thus examined in terms of the effects that they were expected to have on their readers and the constraints that such expectations placed on the works production and reception The result is a paradox while the study of women's bestselling novels is by definition a study of the constraints that shape them careful reading reveals the limitations of those selfsame constraints
