Global China Tarun Chhabra, Rush Doshi, Ryan Hass, 2021-06-22 The global implications of China's rise as a global actor In 2005 a senior official in the George W Bush administration expressed the hope that China would emerge as a responsible stakeholder on the world stage A dozen years later the Trump administration dramatically shifted course instead calling China a strategic competitor whose actions routinely threaten U S interests Both assessments reflected an underlying truth China is no longer just a rising power It has emerged as a truly global actor both economically and militarily Every day its actions affect nearly every region and every major issue from climate change to trade from conflict in troubled lands to competition over rules that will govern the uses of emerging technologies To better address the implications of China's new status both for American policy and for the broader international order Brookings scholars conducted research over the past two years culminating in a project Global China Assessing China's Growing Role in the World The project is intended to furnish policy makers and the public with hard facts and deep insights for understanding China's regional and global ambitions The initiative draws not only on Brookings's deep bench of China and East Asia experts but also on the tremendous breadth of the institution's security strategy regional studies technological and economic development experts Areas of focus include the evolution of China's domestic institutions great power relations the emergence of critical technologies Asian security China's influence in key regions beyond Asia and China's impact on global governance and norms Global China Assessing China's Growing Role in the World provides the most current broad scope and fact based assessment of the implications of China's rise for the United States and the rest of the world Rising Power, Limited Influence Indrajit Roy, Jappe Eckhardt, Dimitrios Stroikos, Simona Davidescu, 2024-01-24 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read on the Oxford Academic platform and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations China's resurgence has spawned anxieties about an impending revision of the Liberal International Order Drawing on case studies of Chinese investments across Europe the contributors to this volume investigate the ways in which China translates its growing resources into effective influence with varying degrees of success They find that influence is most effectively achieved by harnessing the agency of states and societies in Europe towards China's preferences Fragmented and messy rather than unified and coherent these preferences comprise an amalgam of domestic regional and international considerations rather than aimed at revising world order Nevertheless as the contributors to this volume demonstrate the interaction of European agency and Chinese preferences could have a variety of unintended consequences that range from straining the Liberal International Order to strengthening it Against narratives that foreground inevitable conflict or assured cooperation Rising Power Limited Influence innovates a dynamic framework to understand the granular ways in which states and societies in Europe interact with state and society in China to re shape the Liberal International Order Its contribution is three fold Conceptually it offers a relational definition of power that pinpoints attention to the ways in which China translates its growing investments in Europe towards influencing the preferences of host countries Empirically it outlines the different modalities through which China harnesses the agency of European countries towards its own fragmented preferences Theoretically the book introduces a dynamic framework to understand the interaction between state society relations in China with state society relations in European countries to comprehensively appreciate the extent limits and modalities of resurgent China's global influence The Century of Space Science J.A.
