Lost in Transition Christian Smith, Kari Christoffersen, Hilary Davidson, Patricia Snell Herzog, 2011-09-01 Life for emerging adults is vastly different today than it was for their counterparts even a generation ago Young people are waiting longer to marry to have children and to choose a career direction As a result they enjoy more freedom opportunities and personal growth than ever before But the transition to adulthood is also more complex disjointed and confusing In Lost in Transition Christian Smith and his collaborators draw on 230 in depth interviews with a broad cross section of emerging adults ages 18-23 to investigate the difficulties young people face today the underlying causes of those difficulties and the consequences both for individuals and for American society as a whole

Rampant consumer capitalism ongoing failures in education hyper individualism postmodernist moral relativism and other aspects of American culture are all contributing to the chaotic terrain that emerging adults must cross Smith identifies five major problems facing very many young people today confused moral reasoning routine intoxication materialistic life goals regrettable sexual experiences and disengagement from civic and political life The trouble does not lie only with the emerging adults or their poor individual decisions but has much deeper roots in mainstream American culture a culture which emerging adults have largely inherited rather than created Older adults Smith argues must recognize that much of the responsibility for the pain and confusion young people face lies with them Rejecting both sky is falling alarmism on the one hand and complacent disregard on the other Smith suggests the need for what he calls realistic concern and a reconsideration of our cultural priorities and practices that will help emerging adults more skillfully engage unique challenges they face Even handed engagingly written and based on comprehensive research Lost in Transition brings much needed attention to the darker side of the transition to adulthood

Bridges, 2005 Making emotional contact and inviting patients to use therapeutic relationships for their relational and developmental aims is a risky and intimate proposition But as the author of this book argues therapists must be willing to engage deeply with patients to work from within the relationship extending the therapeutic relationship to reach the private experience of self and other and offer new relational experience Moving beyond traditional thinking the author presents a relational approach that integrates psychoanalytic thinking with the latest findings from infant research to give therapists the theoretical framework to orient the treatment and maintain psychic equilibrium and safety during times of arousing and destabilizing affect and relational scenarios A therapeutic stance which is fluid and open to intrapsychic and interpersonal influence allows for the experience and elaboration of complex unconscious affects and shifting points of identification Compelling clinical narratives bring the reader into the consulting room and show how the therapist may forge deep emotional connection within a bounded therapeutic relationship that relies upon mutual influence and self revelation and opens up relational space to ultimately rearrange a patient s experience of self and other
