relationship between self defence law and rules of engagement It is the first monograph to comprehensively examine these issues and to analyse how ROE interact with the various sources of the international law of military operations both in terms of the law as a source for these rules and how the law is reflected and implemented through them In doing so and based on the author's own experience the book provides examples of how complicated often controversial issues of law can be resolved while keeping the rules understandable at all levels of military operations Aimed at both scholars and practitioners the book provides a bridge between the academic world and the operational world It provides new insights for both of those audiences in terms of understanding how the law applies to and through the rules on the use of force for military operations

A handbook on the new law of the sea. 2 (1991) René Jean Dupuy, Daniel Vignes, 1991-10-16 The fact that the Montego Bay Convention has been only ratified by 37 States at present and that it will be some time before the 60 ratifications required by Article 308 are achieved has not prevented states from acting in accordance with the rules drawn up by the Conference Close on one hundred states have established either exclusive economic zones broadly modelled on Part V or 200 nautical mile fishery zones and drawn on the principles laid down for exploiting living resources Although these laws have been formulated unilaterally by states international custom since the judgement by the International Court of Justice in the Fisheries Case of 18 December 1951 is derived from concordant national rules This shift began even before the Conference ended and has been consolidated since then Moreover the regime governing the sea bed beyond the limits of national jurisdiction defined by Part XI which was the stumbling block of the Conference is subject to transitional arrangements on the basis of two resolutions adopted in the Conferences Final Act one providing for the establishment of a Preparatory Commission and the other on the preliminary activities of pioneer investors This two volume work an earlier edition of which appeared in French has been written by a team of experts of international renown It presents an analysis of the Convention with an additional Chapter on the legal regime governing underwater archaeological and historical objects

The Engagement of Domestic Courts with International Law Eleni Methymaki,2024-03-20 The relationship between domestic courts and international law is usually defined by the frameworks of monism and dualism The Engagement of Domestic Courts with International Law advances and develops a new paradigm for describing assessing and understanding the role of domestic courts in the international legal order Two trends are examined in parallel in this volume The traditional dividing lines between national and international law norms and institutions have become increasingly blurred However the practice of domestic courts can less and less be understood by reference to a formal approach that dictates how national legal orders receive international law. The solutions that courts reach are often based on a variety of other considerations that are not captured by the classical formal models. The aim of the book is to bring together the wide variety of types of engagement as an important step towards a better understanding of what courts do and eventually towards a normative exercise of articulating principles or guidelines for the engagement of domestic courts with international law. To bring together the pragmatic approaches of domestic courts, the International Law Association Study Group on Principles on the Engagement of Domestic Courts with International Law engaged in studies with experts from a variety of backgrounds. On the basis of the Study Group's Final Report, the editors of this book continued to work with experts from different jurisdictions to collect and analyse alternate pragmatic forms of engagement from domestic courts. This publication contains the outcome of this process.
