Water Everywhere!

Earth has lots of water! Looking at a globe or map of the planet, it appears that water is everywhere. Oceanic water up to 3,600 million km³ of the world's surface. On land, approximately 600,000 km³ in North America, Europe, and Asia. Wetlands (marshes, bays, lagoons, and rivers) cover large parts of Florida, Louisiana, Alaska, and the Amazon.

Hydrographs, interactive water study, water, climate is centered on only three watersheds (the ground is continuously saturated with water). Other sources include the rocky part of the world. - Just a bit?

Look at the world's map again, and notice the southwestern United States, northern Africa, the Arabian Peninsula, central Asia, and Australia. more cities in the lowlands? The answer may seem obvious: there are no rivers, no lakes, no dry season to split. Even so, Spanish in the Andes, Aztec in Mesoamerica, and Chinese in the Yellow River both built in the mountains and made cities in the middle of dry regions. However, most cities in these basins and along rivers for themselves. If there is no water, why would a settlement be established? Then, how could the settlement grow into a large city? What could explain this phenomenon?

Even to suggest treatment over water, access to it is limited. The majority of water on Earth, including what is located in oceans, is salt water, which is unusable for humans and many plants and animals to drink. It contains too much salt and makes things very sick. If swallowed, salt water can even result in death. Only freshwater (the specific adaptations are for it) and brackish water can be used.
