Scope Of Economics Paper For November 2014:

EU Competition Law, Data Protection and Online Platforms: Data as Essential Facility Inge Graef, 2016-10-17 All are agreed that the digital economy contributes to a dynamic evolution of markets and competition. Nonetheless concerns are increasingly raised about the market dominance of a few key players. Because these companies hold the power to drive rivals out of business regulators have begun to seek scope for competition enforcement in cases where companies claim that withholding data is needed to satisfy customers and cut costs. This book is the first focus on how competition law enforcement tools can be applied to refusals of dominant firms to give access data on online platforms such as search engines, social networks and e-commerce platforms commonly referred to as the gatekeepers of the Internet. The question arises whether the denial of a dominant firm to grant competitors access to its data could constitute a refusal to deal and lead to competition law liability under the so-called essential facilities doctrine according to which firms need access to shared knowledge in order to be able to compete. A possible duty to share data with rivals also brings to the forefront the interaction of competition law with data protection legislation considering that the required information may include personal data of individuals. Building on the refusal to deal concept and using a multidisciplinary approach the analysis covers such issues and topics as the following: data portability, interoperability, data as a competitive advantage or entry barrier in digital markets, market definition and dominance with respect to data, disruptive versus sustaining innovation, role of intellectual property regimes, economic trade-off in essential facilities cases, relationship of competition enforcement with data protection law and data-related competition concerns in merger cases. The author draws on a wealth of relevant material including EU and US decision-making practice, case law and policy documents as well as economic and empirical literature on the link between competition and innovation. The book concludes with a proposed framework for the application of the essential facilities doctrine to potential forms of abuse of dominance relating to data. In addition it makes suggestions as to how data protection interests can be integrated into competition policy. An invaluable contribution to ongoing academic and policy discussions about how data-related competition concerns should be addressed under competition law, the analysis clearly demonstrates how existing competition tools for market definition and assessment of dominance can be applied to online platforms. It will be of immeasurable value to the many jurists, business persons and academics concerned with this very timely subject.

Differentiating the Higher Education System of Ethiopia Adula Bekele Hunde, Ephrem Tekle Yacob, Genene Abebe Tadesse, Kiros Guesh, Mekasha Kassaye Gobaw, Nigussie Dechassa, Tesfaye Muhiye Endris, Tesfaye Negewo, Yemataw Wondie, 2023-01-04 The Government of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia commissioned a national study to review the overall education system of Ethiopia in 2016 that resulted in the Education and Training Roadmap outlining the unwavering commitment towards transformative changes in the national education system. Among the various areas identified in the Roadmap for further intervention and urgent policy shift was the dire need to differentiate the public universities which for ages have stagnated from disciplinary and mission redundancy and transform them to vibrant 21st century dynamic universities endowed with missions commensurate with the critical needs of the country

State Capitalism Joshua Kurlantzick, 2016 The end of the Cold War ushered in an age of American triumphalism best characterized by the Washington Consensus the idea that free markets democratic institutions limitations on government involvement in the economy and the rule of law were the foundations of prosperity and stability The last fifteen years starting with the Asian financial crisis have seen the gradual erosion of that consensus Many commentators have pointed to the emergence of a powerful new rival model state capitalism In state capitalist regimes the government typically owns firms in strategic industries Not beholden to private sector shareholders such firms are allowed to operate with razor thin margins if the state deems them strategically important China soon to be the world's largest economy is the best known state capitalist regime but it is hardly the only one In State Capitalism Joshua Kurlantzick ranges across the world China Thailand Brazil Russia South Africa Turkey and more and argues that the increase in state capitalism across the globe has on balance contributed to a decline in democracy He isolates some of the reasons for state capitalism's resurgence the fact that globalization favors economies of scale in the most critical industries and the widespread rejection of the Washington Consensus in the face of the problems that have plagued the world economy in recent years That said a number of democratic nations have embraced state capitalism and in those regimes state backed firms like Brazil's Embraer have enjoyed considerable success Kurlantzick highlights the mixed record and the evolving nature of the model yet he is more concerned about the negative effects of state capitalism When states control firms whether in democratic or authoritarian regimes the government increases its advantage over the rest of society The combination of new technologies the perceived failures of liberal economics and democracy in many developing nations the rise of modern kinds of authoritarians and the success of some of the best known state capitalists have created an era ripe for state intervention State Capitalism offers the sharpest analysis yet of what state capitalism's emergence means for democratic politics around the world

Emissions Trading Schemes under International Economic Law James Munro, 2018-08-09 The announcement by China that it will implement a national emissions trading scheme confirms the status of this instrument as the pre eminent policy choice for mitigating climate change China will join the dozens of existing and emerging schemes around the world from the EU to California South Korea to New Zealand that use carbon units otherwise known as emissions permits or carbon credits to trade in greenhouse gas emissions in a multi billion dollar global carbon market However to date there has been no consensus about this pre eminent policy instrument being regulated by international economic law through the World Trade Organization international investment agreements and free trade agreements Munro addresses this issue by evaluating whether carbon units qualify as goods services financial services and investments under international economic law and showing how international economic law applies to emissions trading scheme in diverse and unexpected ways Further by engaging in a comparative assessment of schemes around the world his book illustrates how and why all emissions trading schemes engage in various forms of violations of international economic law which would not in most instances be justified by environmental or other exceptions In doing so he demonstrates how such schemes can be designed or reformed in ways to ensure their future compliance
