Engineering Vulnerability Sarah E. Vaughn, 2022-02-07 In Engineering Vulnerability Sarah E Vaughn examines climate adaptation against the backdrop of ongoing processes of settler colonialism and the global climate change initiatives that seek to intervene in the lives of the world's most vulnerable. Her case study is Guyana in the aftermath of the 2005 catastrophic flooding that ravaged the country's Atlantic coastal plain. The country's ensuing engineering projects reveal the contingencies of climate adaptation and the capacity of flooding to shape Guyanese expectations about racial inequality. Analyzing the coproduction of race and vulnerability Vaughn details why climate adaptation has implications for how we understand the past and the continued human settlement of a place. Such understandings become particularly apparent not only through experts and ordinary citizens' disputes over resources but in their attention to the ethical practice of technoscience over time. Approaching climate adaptation this way Vaughn exposes the generative openings as well as gaps in racial thinking for theorizing climate action, environmental justice and more broadly future life on a warming planet. Yearbook of International Organizations 2013-2014 (Volumes 1a-1b) Union of International Associations, 2013-06-21 Volume 1 A and B covers international organizations throughout the world comprising their aims, activities and events. Reducing the Fuel Consumption and Greenhouse Gas Emissions of Medium- and Heavy-Duty Vehicles, Phase Two National Research Council, Transportation Research Board, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Energy and Environmental Systems, Committee on Assessment of Technologies and Approaches for Reducing the Fuel Consumption of Medium- and Heavy-Duty Vehicles, Phase Two, 2014-10-02 Medium and heavy duty trucks, motor coaches and transit buses collectively medium and heavy duty vehicles or MHDVs are used in every sector of the economy. The fuel consumption and greenhouse gas emissions of MHDVs have become a focus of legislative and regulatory action in the past few years. Reducing the Fuel Consumption and Greenhouse Gas Emissions of Medium and Heavy Duty Vehicles Phase Two is a follow on to the National Research Council's 2010 report Technologies and Approaches to Reducing the Fuel Consumption of Medium and Heavy Duty Vehicles. That report provided a series of findings and recommendations on the development of regulations for reducing fuel consumption of MHDVs. This report comprises the first periodic five year follow on to the 2010 report Reducing the Fuel Consumption and Greenhouse Gas Emissions of Medium and Heavy Duty Vehicles Phase Two. It reviews NHTSA fuel consumption regulations and considers the technological market and regulatory factors that may be of relevance to a revised and updated regulatory regime taking effect for model years 2019-2022. The report analyzes and provides options for improvements to the certification and compliance procedures for medium and heavy duty vehicles, reviews an updated analysis of the makeup and characterization of the medium and heavy duty truck fleet, examines the barriers to and the potential applications of natural gas in class 2b through class 8 vehicles and addresses uncertainties and performs sensitivity

Introduction to the Meteorology and Climate of the Tropics J. F. P. Galvin, 2016-01-22 What do we mean by the tropics The weather and the climates it produces across the tropical zone are significantly different from those experienced by the people living in higher latitudes so forecasters across Europe and much of North America are unfamiliar with its effects In this book Jim Galvin demystifies the topic in this zone that is increasingly of interest to those studying weather and climate This book was written for weather forecasters meteorology environmental science and geography students as an introductory guide It builds on the experience of the author his professional experience in the World Area Forecast Centre at the Met Office Exeter using studies into the weather and climate seen within the tropical air mass conducted over many years Its unique approach presents a practical approach to tropical weather studies drawing on both academic and practical knowledge covering air mass dynamics changes moist and dry weather climate variability and human health in chapters and appendices that build up the overall picture summarising our current state of knowledge As an overview it covers the broad range of effects connected with climate and weather in a straightforward way and is clearly illustrated throughout
