- Types of boundaries, plates and plate movement
- Plate boundaries

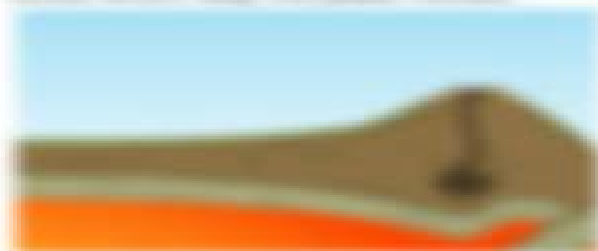

Question: What happens when two continental plates?

- Collision: Boundaries where two continental plates are moving towards each other. When the two continental plates meet, volcanic continental crust is created as volcanoes. One plate will move faster than the other to get over the other plate.

How would you describe the motion of plates in a collision zone?

The plates are colliding together and creating the land to move up, like a mountain range.

- Slip: These create one of the plate boundaries motion and after the plate motion. These are known as slip which way the plate moves.

Slip movement

Slip movement

- Spreading: Two or three boundaries. When a fault can you find different types of plates. You can either find a fault line or a plate boundary.

North of South America, north of India, north-west of Asia.

Highlight these boundaries on the map below.

How would you describe the motion of plates in a collision zone? The plates are moving.
