Macro cognition: The Science and Engineering of Sociotechnical Work Systems Paul Ward, Robert R. Hoffman, Gareth E. Conway, Jan Maarten Schraagen, David Peebles, Robert J. B. Hutton, Erich J. Petushek, 2018-02-28 The increasing complexity of work systems and changes in the nature of workplace technology over the past century have resulted in an exponential shift in the nature of work activities from physical labor to cognitive work Modern work systems have many characteristics that make them cognitively complex They can be highly interactive comprised of multiple agents and artifacts information may be limited and distributed across space and time task goals are frequently ill defined conflicting dynamic and emergent planning may only be possible at general levels of abstraction or require adaptive solutions some degree of proficiency or expertise is required the stakes are often high and uncertainty time constraints and stress are seldom absent To complicate matters further cognition in complex work settings is typically constrained by broader professional organizational and institutional practice and policy These features of cognitive work present significant challenges to scientific methodology and theory and subsequent design of reliable interventions Historically philosophers and scientists have attempted to understand the mental activities experienced during cognitive work at multiple levels of analysis using divergent methods Some have examined cognition at an associative contextual functional or holistic level relying on naturalistic methods to understand the higher mental processes as they work in harmony during goal directed behavior Others have embraced experimental methods and favored internal over external validity often reducing cognition to a psychology of fundamental acts such as short term memory access with millisecond shifts in attention More recently Macro cognition has evolved as a complementary paradigm Macro cognitive researchers have studied the cognitive functions and processes associated with skilled adaptive collaborative and resilient cognitive work in the context of the aforementioned complexities of psychotechnical and sociotechnical work systems Typically this research has been carried out using cognitive task analytic techniques that draw on both naturalistic and quasi experimental methods The primary goals of research in Macro cognition are to better understand cognitive adaptations to complexity to increase our theoretical understanding of the organism environment relations by studying the mapping between cognitive work and real world demands and to promote use inspired research capable of improving system performance

Food Diversity Between Rights, Duties and Autonomies Alessandro Isoni, Michele Troisi, Maurizia Pierri, 2018-04-25 The book reflects on the issues concerning on the one hand the difficulty in feeding an ever increasing world population and on the other hand the need to build new productive systems able to protect the planet from overexploitation The concept of food diversity is a synthesis of diversities biodiversity of ecological sources of food supply socio territorial diversity and cultural diversity of food traditions In keeping with this transdisciplinary perspective the book collects a large number of contributions that examine firstly the relationships between agrobiodiversity rural sustainable systems and food diversity and secondly the issues concerning typicality food specialties food identities rural development and territorial communities Lastly it explores legal questions concerning the regulations aiming to protect both the food diversity and the right to food in the light of the political economic and social implications related to the problem of feeding the world population while at the same time respecting local communities rights especially in the developing countries The book collects the works of legal scholars agroecologists historians and sociologists from around the globe

Uncharted Erez Aiden, Jean-Baptiste Michel, 2014-12-02 One of the most exciting developments from the world of ideas in decades presented with panache by two frighteningly brilliant endearingly unpretentious and endlessly creative young scientists Steven Pinker author of The Better Angels of Our Nature Our society has gone from writing snippets of information by hand to generating a vast flood of 1s and 0s that record almost every aspect of our lives who we know what we do where we go what we buy and who we love This year the world will generate 5 zettabytes of data That's a five with twenty one zeros after it Big data is revolutionizing the sciences transforming the humanities and renegotiating the boundary between industry and the ivory tower What is emerging is a new way of understanding our world our past and possibly our future In Uncharted Erez Aiden and Jean Baptiste Michel tell the story of how they tapped into this sea of information to create a new kind of telescope a tool that instead of uncovering the motions of distant stars charts trends in human history across the centuries By teaming up with Google they were able to analyze the text of millions of books The result was a new field of research and a scientific tool the Google Ngram Viewer so groundbreaking that its public release made the front page of The New York Times The Wall Street Journal and The Boston Globe and so addictive that Mother Jones called it the greatest timewaster in the history of the internet Using this scope Aiden and Michel and millions of users worldwide are beginning to see answers to a dizzying array of once intractable questions How quickly does technology spread Do we talk less about God today When did people start having sex instead of making love At what age do the most famous people become famous How fast does grammar change Which writers had their works most effectively censored by the Nazis When did the spelling donut start replacing the venerable doughnut Can we predict the future of human history Who is better known Bill Clinton or the rutabaga All over the world new scopes are popping up using big data to quantify the human experience at the grandest scales possible Yet dangers lurk in this ocean of 1s and 0s threats to privacy and the specter of ubiquitous government surveillance Aiden and Michel take readers on a voyage through these uncharted waters IOC
